I. GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE OFFERING PROGRAMME

1. General description of the offering programme

BNP Paribas Emissions- und Handelsgesellschaft mbH (hereinafter referred to as the “Issuer”) issues warrants relating to indices, shares, currency exchange rates, metals, commodities, futures contracts and/or depositary receipts (hereinafter referred to as the “Warrants”) following a resolution of its Board of Directors, respectively.

For this purpose, the Issuer has prepared and published this Base Prospectus. A detailed description of the Base Prospectus, in particular of its structure and functioning, is provided in section “III. GENERAL INFORMATION ON THE BASE PROSPECTUS” on page 52 et seq. of this Base Prospectus.

The Issuer has its registered office in Frankfurt am Main. Its business address is Senckenberganlage 19, 60325 Frankfurt am Main, Germany. The Issuer is a company with limited liability (Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung – GmbH) incorporated under the laws of Germany. Further information about the Issuer is provided in section “V. INFORMATION ABOUT THE ISSUER” on page 69 et seq. of this Base Prospectus.

BNP Paribas S.A. of Paris, France, (hereinafter referred to as the “Guarantor” or “BNPP”) has provided an unconditional and irrevocable guarantee (hereinafter referred to as the “Guarantee”) for the due payment of all amounts to be paid under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants if and as soon as the respective payment would be due under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. The Guarantor is a public limited liability company (société anonyme) incorporated in France under the laws of France and holds a banking licence; the address of its principal office is 16, boulevard des Italiens – 75009 Paris, France. Further information about the Guarantor and the Guarantee, respectively, is provided in section “VI. INFORMATION ABOUT THE GUARANTOR” on page 72 et seq. of this Base Prospectus and section “VII. DESCRIPTION OF THE GUARANTEE” on page 73 et seq. of this Base Prospectus.

2. General description of the Warrants described in this Base Prospectus

The securities described in this Base Prospectus are Warrants. This means that payments on the Warrants will depend on the performance of an index, a share, a currency exchange rate, a metal, a commodity, a futures contract and/or a depositary receipt, or that of multiple indices, shares, currency exchange rates, metals, commodities, futures contracts and/or depositary receipts (each an “Underlying”).

The level of the Redemption Amount is not known yet. It will be determined only during the term or upon exercise of the Warrants by the Warrant Holder, in the case of Warrants issued with an exercise right, or termination of the Warrants by the Issuer on the basis of the Underlying.

An essential characteristic of a Warrant is the so-called leverage effect: If the value of the Underlying (or the value of a component included in the Underlying, if applicable) changes, this may cause the value of the Warrant to change proportionally more than the change in value of the Underlying. The leverage effect of the Warrant can work both ways – i.e. not only to the investor’s advantage in the case of a favourable development but also to the investor’s disadvantage in the case of an unfavourable development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to. Therefore, it should be considered when purchasing a particular Warrant that the greater its leverage effect, the greater the risk of loss associated with it.

Therefore, readers are advised to read the risk factors relating to the Issuer, the Guarantor and the Warrants set out in section "II. 3. Further information about the Warrants and about their offering and trading

If provided for in the applicable Final Terms, the Warrants are issued in the form of bearer bonds (Inhaberschuldverschreibungen) as defined in Sec. 793 of the German Civil Code (Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch – BGB) and constitute direct and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer in respect of which the Issuer has not provided collateral. Such Warrants may be drawn up in the form of a note (Urkundenform) or, in accordance with the German Electronic Securities Act (Gesetz über elektronische Wertpapiere, "eWpG"), in the form of electronic securities included in a central register (the "Central Register Securities"). In the case the Warrants are drawn up in the form of a note, the Warrants are evidenced by a permanent global bearer note. No Warrant Holder has the right to an individual note. In case of Warrants issued as electronic securities in accordance with the eWpG, the Central Register Securities shall be issued by registering them electronically in the central register maintained by the registrar and after depositing the relevant terms and conditions for the respective Warrant as a permanent electronic instrument with the registrar. The central register shall be maintained by a registrar acting in the capacity as a central depository for securities (Wertpapiersammelbank). The central depository for securities is registered as the bearer of the Warrants (Inhaber within the meaning of the eWpG) in the central register (collective safe custody entry - Sammeleintragung) and administers the Warrants as trustee for the benefit of the respective Warrant Holders (Berechtigter within the meaning of the eWpG). Central Register Securities registered via collective safe custody entry are legally deemed to be collective securities holdings. No Warrant Holder has the right to an individual registration in the central register. The Warrants shall be transferred as a co-ownership interest in the collective securities holding in accordance with the applicable regulations and statutory provisions of the respective Clearing System. The Issuer reserves the right to change the form of the Warrants over the course of their term (from a global note to an electronic security and vice versa).

If provided for in the applicable Final Terms, the Warrants can also be issued in dematerialised bearer form and cleared through Euroclear France S. A., issued in registered form and cleared through Nederlands Centraal Instituut voor Giraal Effectenverkeer B.V., issued in dematerialised form and cleared through Monte Titoli S.p.A., issued in dematerialised registered form and cleared through Sociedad de Gestión de los Sistemas de Registro, Compensación y Liquidación de Valores, S.A., issued in dematerialised registered form and cleared through Euroclear Sweden AB or issued in uncertificated form and cleared through SIX SIS AG or issued in uncertificated form registered with a custodian under article 4 Swiss Federal Intermediated Securities Act (Bucheffektengesetz) (the "FISA") not being a central securities depository.

The Warrants are intended to be publicly offered to private clients, professional clients and other eligible counterparties as investors in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland and The Netherlands, as further specified in the applicable Final Terms.

A request for admission of the Warrants to trading on a securities exchange in Austria and/or Belgium and/or Bulgaria and/or Croatia and/or Cyprus and/or Czech Republic and/or Denmark and/or Estonia and/or Finland and/or France and/or Germany and/or Greece and/or Hungary and/or Ireland and/or Italy and/or Latvia and/or Lithuania and/or Luxembourg and/or Malta and/or Norway and/or Poland and/or Portugal and/or Romania and/or Slovakia and/or Slovenia and/or Spain and/or Sweden and/or Switzerland and/or The Netherlands may be made, if provided for in the applicable Final Terms.

Further general information about the Warrants and about their offering and trading is provided in section "VIII. INFORMATION ABOUT THE WARRANTS TO BE OFFERED" on page 77 et seq. of this Base Prospectus.

4. Using the Base Prospectus in Switzerland

The Base Prospectus may be (i) registered in Switzerland with the reviewing body (Prüfstelle) SIX Exchange Regulation Ltd or another reviewing body approved by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA as a foreign prospectus that is also deemed to be approved in Switzerland pursuant to Article 54 para. 2 of the Swiss Federal Act on Financial Services ("Financial Services Act"; "FinSA") for inclusion on the list of approved prospectus pursuant to Article 64 para. 5 FinSA, (ii) deposited with this reviewing body and (iii) published pursuant to Article 64 FinSA.

In accordance with Article 36 para. 4 lit. b FinSA, the Issuer consents to the use of the Base Prospectus and the relevant Final Terms by any financial intermediary on the basis of and in accordance with the Base Prospectus and the relevant Final Terms.

The Warrants do not constitute a collective investment scheme within the meaning of the Swiss Federal Act on Collective Investment Schemes ("CISA"). The Securities are neither subject to the authorisation nor to the supervision by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA and investors do not benefit from the specific investor protection provided under the CISA. Investors should be aware that they are exposed to the credit risk of the Issuer and the Guarantor respectively.

II. RISK FACTORS

The purchase of Warrants described in this Base Prospectus involves a number of risks.

The risk factors relating to the Issuer, the Guarantor and the Warrants are considered in the following sections (see section “A. Risk factors relating to the Issuer”, section “B. Risk factors relating to the Guarantor” and section “C. Risk factors relating to the Warrants”, respectively).

The risk factors are divided into categories and, if applicable, subcategories according to their nature, whereby the two most material risk factors are mentioned first in each category and subcategory. The other risk factors mentioned in a category or subcategory are not listed by their materiality. If no subcategory comprising at least two risk factors is listed under the classification level “Category”, this means that the one risk factor listed is the only material risk factor pursuant to the Issuer’s assessment.

The “Risk Factors” part comprises three sections A., B. and C., which are mere classification levels. Section C. contains categories 1. to 5. The classification level “Category” comprises either subcategories (denoted by letters) or, where another classification level “Subcategories” does not make sense because there is only one (isolated) material risk factor in relation to a subject matter, just the risk factors.

Where the risk factors are listed directly, the heading is printed in italics. Where subcategories are used, the headings of the subcategories are printed underlined and in non-italics. In this case, only the headings of the next level, i.e. of the “Risk factor” level, are printed in italics.

The assessment of materiality was made by the Issuer on the basis of the probability of their occurrence and the expected magnitude of their negative impact.

The assessment of materiality of the risk factors has been made as of the date of this Base Prospectus on the basis of the probability of their occurrence; the magnitude of the negative impact on the Issuer and the Warrants is described by reference to the magnitude of potential losses of the purchase price paid for the Warrants, plus any other costs associated with their purchase (hereinafter referred to as the “Invested Capital”) (including the risk of a total loss), any additional costs arising or the limitation of returns from the Warrants.

The probability of the occurrence of risks and the magnitude of the negative impact also depends on the Underlying, the relevant parameters of the Warrants set out in the applicable Final Terms and the circumstances existing as of the date of the relevant Final Terms.

If any one or more of the risks described below materialises, Warrant Holders may lose all or part of the Invested Capital, depending on the structure of the Warrants.

The risks described herebelow may materialise individually or in combination. They may also have mutually reinforcing effects.

A. RISK FACTORS RELATING TO THE ISSUER

Factors which may affect the ability of BNP Paribas Emissions- und Handelsgesellschaft mbH to fulfil its obligations as Issuer of Warrants issued under this Base Prospectus are set out on pages 3 to 6 in section “1 Risk Factors” of the BaFin approved Registration Document of BNP Paribas Emissions- und Handelsgesellschaft mbH dated 16 June 2025 (the “2025 Registration Document”), if applicable as supplemented by any supplements thereto. Information from the said document is incorporated by reference at this place into this Base Prospectus (a list setting out where the information incorporated by reference is included is provided in section “III. General information on the Base Prospectus, 6. Information incorporated by reference” of this Base Prospectus.).

B. RISK FACTORS RELATING TO THE GUARANTOR

Factors which may affect the ability of BNP Paribas S.A. (“BNPP”) to fulfil its obligations as Guarantor under the guarantee, covering securities issued under this Base Prospectus, are set out on pages 4 to 22 in section “1 Risk Factors” of the BaFin approved Registration Document of BNPP of 8 October 2025, in the English language (the “BNPP 2025 Registration Document”), including, if applicable, any supplements thereto.

The risk factors on pages 4 to 22 of the BNPP 2025 Registration Document are incorporated by reference at this place into this Base Prospectus. A list setting out where the information incorporated by reference is included is provided in section “III. GENERAL INFORMATION ON THE BASE PROSPECTUS, 6. Information incorporated by reference” of this Base Prospectus.

C. RISK FACTORS RELATING TO THE WARRANTS

1. Risks related to the rank and characteristics of the Warrants in the case of default of the Issuer and/or the Guarantor

This category of risk factors describes the risk factors related to the rank and characteristics of the Warrants in the case of default of the Issuer and/or the Guarantor. “Risks related to the rank of the Warrants” and “Risks related to the Guarantee provided by BNP Paribas S.A.” are assessed to be the most important risks.

a) Risks related to the rank of the Warrants

As direct, unsecured and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer, the Warrants rank pari passu in right of payment with each other and with any other present and future unsecured and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer – including in the event of insolvency of the Issuer – to the exclusion of liabilities ranking senior by operation of mandatory law.

Therefore, the risk associated with these Warrants is higher for the Warrant Holders than that associated with securities ranking higher by operation of mandatory law.

b) Risks related to the Guarantee provided by BNP Paribas S.A.

BNP Paribas S.A., Paris, France, in its capacity as Guarantor has provided an unconditional and irrevocable Guarantee for the due payment of all amounts to be paid under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants if and as soon as the respective payment would be due under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

In the event that any amounts to be paid under the Warrants issued by the Issuer are not duly paid, the Warrant Holders may make claims on the Guarantor under the Guarantee. Therefore, given that the Warrants are guaranteed, the Warrant Holders (indirectly) bear also the insolvency risk of BNP Paribas S.A.

In the event that insolvency proceedings are initiated against the Guarantor, Warrant Holders are able to make their claims under the Guarantee only in accordance with the provisions of (French) insolvency law. In this case, Warrant Holders receive an amount of money determined on the basis of the amount of the insolvency quota obtained by the Guarantor. As a rule, this amount does not even come close to the amount of Capital the Warrant Holder Invested to purchase the Warrants. If claims are made against the Guarantor under the Guarantee and the Guarantor becomes insolvent, this may even result in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

c) Resolution measures and bail-in in relation to the Issuer

Although the Issuer itself is not a CRR Credit Institution, it cannot be excluded that, as a subsidiary of the Guarantor, it is subject to statutory provisions under the German Act on the Recovery and Resolution of Credit Institutions (Gesetz zur Sanierung und Abwicklung von Kreditinstituten – “SAG”) that would allow the German Federal Financial Supervisory Authority (Bundesanstalt für Finanzdienstleistungsaufsicht – “BaFin”) in its capacity as the competent resolution authority to take resolution measures in relation to the Issuer. The term “CRR Credit Institution” is based on the abbreviation for the English title of the Capital Requirements Regulation (EU) No. 575/2013 and was introduced into Sec. 1 Para. 3d of the German Banking Act (Kreditwesengesetz – KWG) by the German CRD IV Implementing Act (CRD IV-Umsetzungsgesetz) of 28 August 2013, where it replaced the previous term “Deposit Bank” (Einlagenkreditinstitut).

If the provisions of the SAG are applicable, BaFin may determine in the cases specified by law that claims of the Warrant Holders under the Warrants be converted into shares in the Guarantor. In this case, Warrant Holders would bear the same risks as any shareholder of the Guarantor. As a rule, the price of the shares in the Guarantor will have dropped sharply in such a situation. Therefore, Warrant Holders are highly likely to suffer a loss in this case.

The Redemption Amount of the Warrants and any claims to interest under the Warrants may be reduced in whole or in part by an act of the competent resolution authority, i.e. reduced due to an administrative measure. Warrant Holders will then receive a reduced repayment or no repayment at all on the Invested Capital.

The resolution authority may also make changes to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. For example, it may change the date when the Warrants are redeemed. In this case, Warrant Holders receive the agreed payments under the Warrants later than originally agreed under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

According to the provisions of the SAG, the conditions for resolution are met if the resolution authority finds that the continued existence of the Issuer is at risk.

If the resolution authority takes resolution measures, Warrant Holders bear the risk of losing their claims under the Warrants. This applies in particular to claims to payment of the Redemption Amount or other payments.

Resolution measures taken by the competent resolution authority against the Issuer may result in significant losses or in a total loss of Warrant Holders’ Invested Capital.

d) Risk associated with resolution measures in relation to the Guarantor

Since the Guarantor has provided a Guarantee for the due payment of all amounts to be paid under the Warrants issued by the Issuer, measures taken in France under French law in relation to BNP Paribas S.A. or the BNP-Paribas-Group according to the transposition of the European Recovery and Resolution Directive may have indirect adverse effects on the Warrants.

Warrant Holders face the risk that in the event of resolution measures under French law being ordered by the authorities, BNP Paribas S.A. may not be able to meet its obligations as Guarantor under the Warrants. If the continued existence of BNP Paribas S.A. is endangered, the French Autorité de Contrôle Prudentiel et de Résolution (“ACPR”) in its capacity as the competent resolution authority may also order resolution measures to be taken in advance of insolvency proceedings.

In this context, the resolution authority has extensive powers to take action in relation to BNP Paribas S.A. which may have adverse effects on the Warrants of the Issuer. For example, if the continued existence of BNP Paribas S.A. is endangered, it cannot be excluded that any claims which may exist and are directed against BNP Paribas S.A. on the basis of the Guarantee will be written down to zero or converted into shares in BNP Paribas S.A. by the competent resolution authority.

In this case, investors who have invested in the Warrants issued by the Issuer bear the risk of income from the Warrants being limited. If the Issuer becomes temporarily or permanently insolvent, resolution measures taken by the competent resolution authority in relation to BNP Paribas S.A. may result in significant losses and even a total loss of investors’ Invested Capital.

e) No deposit guarantee scheme or compensation fund

There is no statutory or voluntary deposit guarantee or compensation fund scheme in place for liabilities of the Issuer under the Warrants.

The Warrants are not deposits such as, for example, credit balances in bank accounts (including fixed-term deposits or savings deposits), which is the most important reason why the Warrants are not covered under the deposit guarantee scheme. Since the Issuer is not a credit or financial services institution, the claims the investors have against the Issuer in connection with the Warrants are also not secured by a statutory or private compensation fund.

In other words, there is no protection in place for the liabilities to be paid by the Issuer under the Warrants, and, subject to the Guarantee provided by BNP Paribas S.A. as Guarantor, Warrant Holders face the risk of a total loss of their Invested Capital in the event that the Issuer becomes insolvent.

2. Risks relating to the redemption profile of the Warrants

This category of risk factors describes the risk factors relating to the redemption profile of the Warrants for each product.

For the purposes of this section “Risks relating to the redemption profile of the Warrants”, the term “Underlying” may also include the (relevant) Underlying assets and the (relevant) components comprised therein.

(i) Product 1: UNLIMITED TURBO Long/Short Warrants

(a) UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants

With UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Relevant Strike during the Observation Period, there is a risk of the term being terminated immediately. In this case, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

Moreover, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Reference Price exceeds the Relevant Strike on the Valuation Date and the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or falls below the Relevant Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants do not have a fixed Settlement Date.

For further information about the risks associated with the absence of a limitation of the term of the UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants, reference is made to sections “3. Risks relating to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants”; “a) Risks associated with an unlimited term” and “b) Risks associated with a Minimum Exercise Number”.

On 15 October 2025, BaFin published a general administrative act restricting the marketing, distribution and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors residing in Germany, following a market survey it previously conducted in Germany. Among other things, BaFin aims to ensure that retail investors are made aware of the specific risks associated with these products in a transparent manner. This includes, among others, after a grandfathering period, the inclusion of the following risk warning in communications relating to the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors in Germany: "On average, 7 out of 10 retail investors incur losses when trading in turbo certificates. Turbo certificates are highly risky products and are not suitable for long-term investment strategies." Although the BaFin general administrative act only concerns the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates in Germany and is not relevant in other offer countries, the specific risks should nevertheless be taken into consideration when investing in UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants.

(b) UNLIMITED TURBO Short Warrants

With UNLIMITED TURBO Short Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price reaches or exceeds the Relevant Strike during the Observation Period, there is a risk of the term being terminated immediately. In this case, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

Moreover, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Reference Price is lower than the Relevant Strike on the Valuation Date and the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or exceeds the Relevant Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

UNLIMITED TURBO Short Warrants do not have a fixed Settlement Date.

(ii) Product 2: MINI Future Long/Short Warrants

(a) MINI Future Long Warrants

With MINI Future Long Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Stop-Loss Barrier, there is a risk of the term being terminated immediately. In this case, the Redemption Amount is equal to the amount by which the Stop-Loss Reference Level exceeds the Relevant Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

If the Stop-Loss Reference Level is lower than or equal to the Relevant Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

Moreover, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Reference Price exceeds the Relevant Strike and the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or falls below the Relevant Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

MINI Future Long Warrants do not have a fixed Settlement Date.

(iii) Product 3: Call/Put Warrants

(a) Call Warrants

With Call Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Reference Price exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or falls below the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect. This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

(b) Put Warrants

With Put Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Reference Price is lower than the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect. This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

(iv) Product 4: Discount Call/Put Warrants

(a) Discount Call Warrants

With Discount Call Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Reference Price exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or falls below the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

Furthermore, there is an upper limit on the Redemption Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect. This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

(b) Discount Put Warrants

With Discount Put Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Reference Price is lower than the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

Furthermore, there is an upper limit on the Redemption Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect. This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

(v) Product 5: Constant Leverage Long/Short Warrants (with unlimited term)

(a) Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term)

Risks associated with the Leverage Factor (leverage component)

Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) reflect the leveraged purchase (known as long position) of the Underlying they are linked to by means of the Relevant Cash Value Long. The Relevant Cash Value Long is based on a leverage component which represents the Performance of the Underlying multiplied by the constant Leverage Factor. Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) not only allow investors to participate in the positive performance (i.e. price increases, generally) of the Underlying but investors also participate in the negative performance (i.e. price decreases, generally) of the Underlying, with price changes of the Underlying having a disproportionately high impact on the value of the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term).

In this context, it should be noted that, in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the daily Performance of the Underlying may be adjusted for dividends or other costs incurred in connection with dividends or otherwise (in particular in the case of indices, shares and securities representing shares (Depository Receipts)), or for Roll-Over Costs (in the case of futures contracts), which usually has a negative effect on the Performance of the Underlying and thus an additional negative effect on the Relevant Cash Value Long.

Given that the performance of a Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) is calculated for a period of more than one day on the basis of the daily Performance of the Underlying and the Financing Component amplified by the Leverage Factor, the performance of the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) may differ significantly from the overall performance of the Underlying over the same period. Such differences may occur both when the price of the Underlying increases or decreases steadily and when the price of the Underlying fluctuates, potentially resulting in the fact that the performance of the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) falls behind the Performance of the Underlying over the course of the same period. In particular, the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) may lose value even if, at the end of this period, the Underlying reaches the level it amounted to at the beginning of this period.

If the relevant price of the Underlying moves in different directions after issuance of the Warrants (i.e. if price gains and losses alternate) and the price of the Underlying returns to the level it was at on the issue date of the Warrants, the leveraged Performance of the Underlying (understood as the value of the leverage component) to be taken into account when determining the Relevant Cash Value Long will at that point in time not be equal to its initial value (i.e. the leveraged opening price of the Underlying) but lower; depending on the effect of the repeated application of the constant leverage factor, it may even be significantly lower than its initial value.

If the relevant price of the Underlying decreases significantly, the value of the leverage component (subject to a Reset Event, if applicable) also decreases to a very low level and even potential price gains of the Underlying at a later point have only a minor effect on the recovery of the value of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) due to the constant leverage effect.

The risk of loss is essentially determined by the value of the Leverage Factor: the higher the Leverage Factor the greater the risk.

Depending on the Relevant Cash Value Long or on the Reference Price of the Underlying on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount may be substantially lower than the purchase price paid for a Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) and may go down to as low as zero (0), in which case NO payment will be made. In this case, the Warrant does not yield any return but involves a risk of total loss of the Invested Capital or a loss corresponding to the entire purchase price paid for a Warrant (total loss).

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Constant Leverage Long Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

In this context, it should be noted that the lower the Relevant Cash Value Long or the lower the Reference Price on the Valuation Date, the lower the Redemption Amount.

For further information about the risks associated with the absence of a limitation of the term of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term), reference is made to sections "3. Risks relating to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants”; “a) Risks associated with an unlimited term” and “b) Risks associated with a Minimum Exercise Number”.

On 15 October 2025, BaFin published a general administrative act restricting the marketing, distribution and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors residing in Germany, following a market survey it previously conducted in Germany. Among other things, BaFin aims to ensure that retail investors are made aware of the specific risks associated with these products in a transparent manner. This includes, among others, after a grandfathering period, the inclusion of the following risk warning in communications relating to the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors in Germany: "On average, 7 out of 10 retail investors incur losses when trading in turbo certificates. Turbo certificates are highly risky products and are not suitable for long-term investment strategies." Although the BaFin general administrative act only concerns the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates in Germany and is not relevant in other offer countries, the specific risks should nevertheless be taken into consideration when investing in Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term).

Risks associated with the Leverage Factor (leverage component) in the event of a Reset Event

Another risk is associated with the leverage effect of a Reset Event of the Cash Value Long, i.e. if the Observation Price of the Underlying decreases very sharply between the determination of the relevant Reference Price on two consecutive Cash Value Calculation Dates or during such other period specified for this purpose in the Final Terms. If, in such case, the Reset Threshold specified in the Final Terms is reached or fallen short of, this will result in a Reset Event of the Cash Value Long_(t) on the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t) or on such other period specified for this purpose in the Final Terms. For this purpose, a Reset Price of the Underlying is determined which is then used as the new or adjusted price of the Underlying for the purpose of determining the adjusted Cash Value Long_(t). This price forms the basis for the further calculation of the Performance of the Underlying with respect to the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t) or such other period specified in the Final Terms for this purpose. If the price of the Underlying decreases sharply and steadily, this may result in two or more Reset Events taking place on a Cash Value Calculation Date. Due to the leverage component of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) relating to the Performance of the Underlying, an adverse adjustment of the Cash Value Long has a disproportionately high impact on the value of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term). Moreover, despite the reset mechanism, a risk of Warrant Holders suffering a total loss of their Invested Capital remains.

Potential purchasers of the Warrants should also consider that the Reset Threshold may be reached or fallen below at any time, including outside local trading hours or outside the trading hours of the Calculation Agent or the Offeror.

Risks associated with a Financing Component

The performance of the Warrants is always adjusted for the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component, resulting in the actual performance being lower. The purpose of the Financing Component is to cover the expenses of the Issuer and/or the Calculation Agent (e.g. the Hedging Cost) and it includes the Administration Fee. Consequently, the Redemption Amount payable to investors is reduced by the Financing Component. The Calculation Agent may adjust certain cost elements included in the Financing Component – specifically the Hedging Cost (amplified by the Leverage Factor), the Administration Fee (also amplified by the Leverage Factor) and the Interest Margin (amplified, if applicable) – within certain ranges. The range within which each cost element may lie is determined by the Calculation Agent upon issuance of the Warrant. The longer the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) are held, the stronger can be the negative effect of the Financing Component and, depending on the actual amount of the cost element concerned, can result in a substantial reduction of the Redemption Amount or, in the extreme case even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

(b) Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term)

Risks associated with the Leverage Factor (leverage component)

Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) reflect the leveraged sale (known as short position) of the Underlying they are linked to by means of the Relevant Cash Value Short. The Relevant Cash Value Short is based on a leverage component which represents the Performance of the Underlying multiplied by the negative of the constant Leverage Factor. In Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term), a negative performance (i.e. price decreases, generally) of the Underlying generally has a favourable effect on the leverage component, while a positive performance (i.e. price increases, generally) of the Underlying generally has an unfavourable effect on the leverage component, with price changes of the Underlying having a disproportionately high impact on the value of the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term).

In this context, it should be noted that, in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the daily Performance of the Underlying may be adjusted for dividends or other costs incurred in connection with dividends or otherwise (in particular in the case of indices, shares and securities representing shares (Depository Receipts)), or for Roll-Over Costs (in the case of futures contracts), which usually has a negative effect on the Performance of the Underlying and thus an additional negative effect on the Relevant Cash Value Short.

Given that the performance of a Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) is calculated for a period of more than one day on the basis of the daily Performance of the Underlying and the Financing Component amplified by the Leverage Factor, the performance of the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) may differ significantly from the overall performance of the Underlying over the same period. Such differences may occur both when the price of the Underlying decreases or increases steadily and when the price of the Underlying fluctuates, potentially resulting in the fact that the performance of the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) is disadvantageous for the Warrant Holder in comparison to the Performance of the Underlying over the course of the same period of time. In particular, the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) may lose value even if, at the end of this period, the Underlying reaches the level it amounted to at the beginning of this period.

If the relevant price of the Underlying moves in different directions after issuance of the Warrants (i.e. if price losses and gains alternate) and the price of the Underlying returns to the level it was at on the issue date of the Warrants, the leveraged Performance of the Underlying (understood as the value of the leverage component) to be taken into account when determining the Relevant Cash Value Short will at that point in time not be equal to its initial value (i.e. the leveraged opening price of the Underlying) but lower; depending on the effect of the repeated application of the constant leverage factor, it may even be significantly lower than its initial value.

If the relevant price of the Underlying increases significantly, the value of the leverage component (subject to a Reset Event, if applicable) also decreases to a very low level and even potential price losses of the Underlying at a later point have only a minor effect on the recovery of the value of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) due to the constant leverage effect.

The risk of loss is essentially determined by the value of the Leverage Factor: the higher the Leverage Factor the greater the risk.

Depending on the Relevant Cash Value Short or on the Reference Price of the Underlying on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount may be substantially lower than the purchase price paid for a Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) and may go down to as low as zero (0), in which case NO payment will be made. In this case, the Warrant does not yield any return but involves a risk of total loss of the Invested Capital or a loss corresponding to the entire purchase price paid for a Warrant (total loss).

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Constant Leverage Short Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

In this context, it should be noted that the lower the Relevant Cash Value Short or the higher the Reference Price on the Valuation Date, the lower the Redemption Amount.

For further information about the risks associated with the absence of a limitation of the term of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term), reference is made to sections "3. Risks relating to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants"; "a) Risks associated with an unlimited term" and "b) Risks associated with a Minimum Exercise Number".

For this purpose, a Reset Price of the Underlying is determined which is then used as the new or adjusted price of the Underlying for the purpose of determining the adjusted Cash Value Short_(t). This price forms the basis for the further calculation of the Performance of the Underlying with respect to the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t) or such other period specified in the Final Terms for this purpose. If the price of the Underlying increases sharply and steadily, this may result in two or more Reset Events taking place on a Cash Value Calculation Date. Due to the leverage component of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) relating to the Performance of the Underlying, an adverse adjustment of the Cash Value Short has a disproportionately high impact on the value of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term). Moreover, despite the reset mechanism, a risk of Warrant Holders suffering a total loss of their Invested Capital remains.

Potential purchasers of the Warrants should also consider that the Reset Threshold may be reached or exceeded at any time, including outside local trading hours or outside the trading hours of the Calculation Agent or the Offeror.

(vi) Product 6: TURBO Long/Short Warrants

(a) TURBO Long Warrants

With TURBO Long Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Knock-Out Barrier during the Observation Period, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the Reference Price exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or falls below the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

On 15 October 2025, BaFin published a general administrative act restricting the marketing, distribution and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors residing in Germany, following a market survey it previously conducted in Germany. Among other things, BaFin aims to ensure that retail investors are made aware of the specific risks associated with these products in a transparent

(b) TURBO Short Warrants

With TURBO Short Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price reaches or exceeds the Knock-Out Barrier during the Observation Period, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the Reference Price is lower than the Strike on the Valuation Date, Warrant Holders will suffer a loss if the Redemption Amount is lower than the purchase price the Warrant Holders paid for the Warrant.

If the Reference Price reaches or exceeds the Strike on the Valuation Date, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

On 15 October 2025, BaFin published a general administrative act restricting the marketing, distribution and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors residing in Germany, following a market survey it previously conducted in Germany. Among other things, BaFin aims to ensure that retail investors are made aware of the specific risks associated with these products in a transparent manner. This includes, among others, after a grandfathering period, the inclusion of the following risk warning in communications relating to the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates to retail investors in Germany: "On average, 7 out of 10 retail investors incur losses when trading in turbo certificates. Turbo certificates are highly risky products and are not suitable for long-term investment strategies." Although the BaFin general administrative act only concerns the marketing, distribution, and sale of turbo certificates in Germany and is not relevant in other offer countries, the specific risks should nevertheless be taken into consideration when investing in TURBO Short Warrants.

(vii) Product 7: Inline Warrants

With Inline Warrants, investors bear the risk of an adverse performance of the Underlying.

If the Observation Price exceeds or, where provided for in the Final Terms, reaches or exceeds the Upper Barrier or falls below or, where provided for in the Final Terms, reaches or falls below the Lower Barrier ("Knock-Out Event"), there is a risk of the term being terminated immediately.

If a Knock-Out Event occurs during the Observation Period, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless the Final Terms provide for a Minimum Amount, whereupon NO payment would be made (total loss).

If the Final Terms provide for payment of a Minimum Amount, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to that Minimum Amount.

If the price of the Underlying to which the Warrant relates changes, this may have a proportionately more adverse effect on the Warrants due to the leverage effect.

This may result in significant losses and, subject to any Minimum Amount provided for in the Final Terms, even in a total loss of investors' Invested Capital.

3. Risks relating to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants

This category of risk factors describes the risk factors relating to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

a) Risks associated with an unlimited term

The risk factors "Exercise of the Warrants by the Warrant Holder" and "Ordinary termination by the Issuer" are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Exercise of the Warrants by the Warrant Holder

If the Warrants do not have a fixed Settlement Date and, consequently, do not have a fixed term, the Warrant Right of the Warrant Holders as represented by the Warrants must be exercised by the Warrant Holder on a specified Exercise Date according to the exercise procedure specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in order to assert the Warrant Right.

In accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Warrant Holder will then be paid a Redemption Amount in the Settlement Currency. This amount depends mainly on the performance of the Underlying until the relevant Exercise Date. Even if the Warrant Holder has the right to exercise the Warrants on certain Exercise Dates, such dates may be unfavourable for the Warrant Holder. The Warrant Holder has to decide for itself whether and to what extent exercise of the Warrant leads to a disadvantage for the Warrant Holder. If the Warrant Holder exercises the Warrants at an unfavourable point in time or does not exercise them validly, this may give rise to additional costs for the Warrant Holder or result in the income from the Warrants being limited. If market conditions are unfavourable at the time of exercise, i.e. if the value of the Warrants has decreased compared to the price at which they were purchased, there is a risk of significant loss, or, in the worst case, even total loss of the Invested Capital.

The requirements to be met in order for the Warrant Right to be exercised properly by the Warrant Holder are included in the relevant Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, if applicable. If Warrant Holders do not meet the formal requirements for exercising Warrant Rights, they will not be able to validly exercise them.

Therefore, in the event that the exercise of Warrant Rights is not valid and the value of the Warrants has decreased between the point in time when they were intended to be exercised and the date of their actual exercise, there is also a risk of significant loss or, in the worst case, even total loss of the Invested Capital.

Ordinary termination by the Issuer

The Issuer shall have the right to terminate the Warrants by ordinary termination in compliance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants on an Ordinary Termination Date specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. In this case, the Warrant Holder receives an amount per Warrant equal to the Redemption Amount determined at the relevant Ordinary Termination Date and payable in the Settlement Currency. This amount depends mainly on the performance of the Underlying until the relevant Ordinary Termination Date. Under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Issuer may even have a daily right to terminate the Warrants. Investors cannot rely on being able to hold the Warrants for an unlimited time and participate in the performance of the Underlying. Therefore, the Warrants may represent only rights that are limited in time, e.g. in the event of ordinary termination by the Issuer. There is no certainty that it will be possible to compensate potential price losses by a subsequent increase in value of the Warrant before the Warrant is terminated by the Issuer by ordinary termination.

In the event that the Issuer terminates the Warrants by ordinary termination, the Warrant Holder has no influence on the applicable Ordinary Termination Date, which may be unsuitable for the Warrant Holder. If market conditions are unfavourable at the time of ordinary termination, i.e. if the value of the Warrants has decreased compared to the price at which they were purchased, there is a risk of significant loss, or, in the worst case, even total loss of the Invested Capital.

b) Risks associated with a Minimum Number to be exercised

The Final Terms may stipulate that, in the case of Warrants issued with an exercise right, the exercise right may only be exercised with respect to a specified number of Warrants (the “Minimum Number”). Therefore, Warrant Holders who do not have the required Minimum Number of Warrants either have to sell their Warrants or purchase additional Warrants (with transaction costs being incurred in either case). However, a sale of the Warrants requires that market participants are found who are willing to purchase the Warrants at a corresponding price. If no such market participants who are willing to purchase are found, the value of the Warrants cannot be realised.

If the conditions for exercise described in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants are not met in due time before the relevant exercise date, the Exercise Notice will be null and void and exercise will only be possible again on the next exercise date provided for under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants for the respective Warrants.

If the Underlying develops in any adverse way in the period until the next exercise date provided for, this may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

c) Market Disruptions

The Calculation Agent or the Issuer may determine that a Market Disruption in relation to the Underlying has occurred or is continuing. This determination is made on the basis of parameters specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. The Calculation Agent or the Issuer will exercise their reasonable discretion (Secs. 317 and 315, respectively, of the German Civil Code (Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch – BGB)) in determining that a Market Disruption has occurred or is continuing. In doing so, they are not bound by actions taken or assessments made by third parties.

If a Market Disruption occurs, the determination of the relevant price of the Warrant (e.g. of the Reference Price) may be delayed as a result of that. Moreover, a Market Disruption may result in the Calculation Agent or the Issuer will exercise their reasonable discretion (Secs. 317 and 315, respectively, of the BGB) in determining the price or the occurrence of certain events in relation to the Warrants. In this context, the Calculation Agent or the Issuer will also take into account all other market conditions. Payment of the respective amount to be paid may be delayed as a result of this. Moreover, it is possible that determinations made by the Calculation Agent may turn out to be incorrect at a later point. This may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants.

Market Disruptions may thus affect the value of the Warrants and delay payment of the respective amount to be paid. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

d) Adjustments, termination risk, reinvestment risk

The risk factors “Adjustment Events” and “Exercise of Issuer’s extraordinary termination right” are assessed to be the most important risk factors in this subcategory.

In the event that adjustment measures are taken in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, it cannot be excluded that the adjustment measures made on the basis of the assessments turn out to be incorrect at a later point and the adjustment measure turns out to be disadvantageous for the Warrant Holder later on.

Examples of such Adjustment Events include delisting or cessation of existence of the Underlying, changes in law or tax events. In the event that the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants are adjusted, the Warrants are continued, however, there is a risk of an adjustment measure subsequently turning out to be incorrect or insufficient. As a result, the Warrant Holder may be in an economically weaker position than before the adjustment measure.

Adjustment Events

If an Adjustment Event or Potential Adjustment Event has occurred, the Issuer may either adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or replace the Underlying by a Successor Underlying or, if applicable, determine a Successor Reference Source. Such an Adjustment Event or Potential Adjustment Event may be caused by an event that has a material effect on the Underlying.

In this context, investors should take into account in particular that the Warrants issued under this Base Prospectus may be linked, inter alia, to the performance of share, commodity or foreign currency indices or other indices. Moreover, by taking into account the financing component pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, reference interest rates, such as the London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR), the Euro Interbank Offered Rate (EURIBOR), the Sterling Overnight Index Average (SONIA), the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (SOFR), the Swiss Average Rate Overnight (SARON), the Tokyo Overnight Average Rate (TONAR) or other reference interest rates may be used in determining the Redemption Amount of the Warrants issued under this Base Prospectus. These reference rates are hereinafter also referred to as “Benchmarks”. Some of these Benchmarks are the subject of recent national, international and other supervisory requirements and proposals for reform such as the Principles for Financial Benchmarks published by the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) in July 2013, and of regulations such as the EU Benchmark Regulation, which has been largely applied since 1 January 2018 (see risk factor “Risks associated with effects of regulation and Benchmark reform” under category “5. Risks associated with the Underlying”).

This regulation or these reforms may result in particular in the formula and the way in which the Benchmark has been calculated up to now or the composition of the Benchmark being changed in order to comply with the provisions of the EU Benchmark Regulation to the effect that, according to the determination of the Calculation Agent, the Benchmark can no longer be compared with the previous Benchmark, or the Benchmark concerned is even set by an administrator and thus can no longer be used as Underlying. These events may constitute an Adjustment Event or Potential Adjustment Event in respect of the Warrants issued under this Base Prospectus which are linked to Benchmarks and may give the Issuer the right to adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or to replace the Underlying with a Successor Underlying.

Moreover, the Issuer may have the right in the event of an Adjustment Event or Potential Adjustment Event to terminate the Warrants by extraordinary termination. In the event of an extraordinary termination, the Termination Amount is equal to a market price determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion, which may also be lower than the purchase price or, in the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, lower than the Initial Cash Value Long (in the case of Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term)) or the Initial Cash Value Short (in the case of Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term)) and, in the extreme case may be as low as zero (0), which means that the investor may suffer a total loss of its Invested Capital.

Such adjustment, replacement or termination may have a negative effect on the Warrants because it may cause the value of the Warrants to decrease. For example, a Successor Underlying may perform worse than the original Underlying was expected to. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Exercise of Issuer’s extraordinary termination right

In the event of extraordinary termination of the Warrants by the Issuer as provided for in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Issuer shall pay the Warrant Holder an amount per Warrant yet to be determined. This amount will be determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) as the reasonable market price of the Warrant immediately before the event giving rise to the termination right in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. Valuation risks may arise in this context in connection with determining the Termination Amount.

In determining a reasonable market price, the Calculation Agent may take into account all factors, including any adjustments to futures or option contracts for the Underlying, without, however, being bound by actions taken or assessments made by third parties, in particular actions taken or assessments made by the Futures Exchange, if applicable.

Due to the fact that the Calculation Agent may consider market factors it deems relevant in its decision-making without being bound by any actions taken or assessments made by third parties, it cannot be excluded that the market price of the Warrant determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) as reasonable, and thus the Termination Amount, may differ from any market price determined by a third party for similar options or Warrants linked to the Underlying.

Accordingly, the Termination Amount may differ from any market price determined by a third party for similar options or securities linked to the Underlying. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Reinvestment risk

Both in the event of ordinary or extraordinary termination of the Warrants by the Issuer and in the event that the Warrants are exercised by the Warrant Holder itself, the Warrant Holder shall bear the reinvestment risk because it is possible that the amount paid out by the Issuer, if applicable, can only be reinvested on market terms less favourable than those prevailing when the Warrant terminated or exercised was purchased.

This is, in any case, a significant risk in the case of the products that have an open-end structure (i.e. no limit on their term) and there is therefore no clearly defined investment horizon on the product side.

The Warrant Holder bears the risk of its expectations of an increase in value through an alternative investment possibly not materialising and the income from the Warrants being limited.

e) Currency exchange risks associated with the Warrants

If the claim represented by the Warrants is calculated on the basis of a foreign currency, monetary unit or unit of account or the value of the Underlying or, if applicable, of any of the components of the Underlying is determined in such a foreign currency, monetary unit or unit of account (as is often the case with foreign Underlyings), the risk of loss depends not only on the performance of the Underlying (or of individual components of the Underlying) but also on unfavourable developments of the value of the foreign currency, monetary unit or unit of account. Fluctuations of currency exchange rates may be less obvious risks than those associated with the payoff profile and are therefore of particular relevance. Such developments of currency exchange rates may increase the risk of loss due to the fact that

- (a) the level of the Redemption Amount to be potentially received decreases proportionately if the currency exchange rate develops unfavourably, and/or
- (b) the value of the Warrants purchased decreases proportionately.
- (c) Warrant Holders bear the risk that currency exchange rate fluctuations between the currency in which payments under the Warrants are made and the Warrant Holder's home currency, which is mainly relevant for the Warrant Holder's other economic and financial circumstances, may be disadvantageous for the Warrant Holder. This applies in particular if an emerging market currency is involved. The risk factor under "Risks associated with underlyings governed by the laws of emerging market jurisdictions" under category "5. Risks associated with the Underlying" applies analogously in this context. Warrant Holders should note that currency exchange rates are subject to large fluctuations and are determined by the supply of and demand for currencies in the foreign exchange markets.

If the Final Terms provide for quanto conversion, the amount concerned is converted into the Settlement Currency without reference to the exchange rate between the currency of the Underlying and the Settlement Currency. Although the conversion into the Settlement Currency is made without reference to the exchange rate between the currency of the Underlying and the Settlement Currency and there is therefore no conversion risk, the relative interest rate difference between the current interest rate for the currency of the Underlying and the current interest rate for the Settlement Currency may have an adverse effect on the price of the Warrants at hand.

This may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the event of a very negative development of the exchange rate, even in significant losses for the Warrant Holder.

f) Risks associated with determinations by the Calculation Agent and/or the Issuer

Discretionary powers of the Calculation Agent and/or the Issuer may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants.

The Terms and Conditions of the Warrants stipulate that the Calculation Agent and/or the Issuer have certain discretionary powers when making decisions relating to the Warrants. For example, discretionary powers play a role

- in establishing a Market Disruption and/or establishing whether a Market Disruption is significant;
- in making adjustments to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants;
- in determining the extraordinary Termination Amount.

The Calculation Agent and the Issuer make such determinations at their reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 or 315 BGB, respectively). Moreover, Warrant Holders must consider that a determination made by the Calculation Agent may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants. If this is the case, the adverse effect of such a determination by the Calculation Agent also affects the amounts payable under the Warrants.

Discretionary acts outside the control of the Warrant Holder may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

4. Risks relating to investing in, holding and disposing of the Warrants

This category of risk factors describes the risk factors relating to investing in, holding and disposing of the Warrants.

a) Market price risks

Market price risks arise in particular from the fact that the structure of the Warrants is such that their price is dependent on the Underlying. The repayment of the Warrants depends on how a certain Underlying develops and, consequently, the development of the price of the Warrants during their term is also highly dependent on the expected and actual development of the Underlying. Depending on the nature of the Underlying, its performance depends on a number of influencing factors such as the actual and expected economic development of individual companies, industries, regions, commodity markets, other procurement and sales markets, the level of interest and prices in capital markets, development of price levels and exchange rates, the political situation or the consequences of health risks from pandemics like coronavirus.

The European Securities and Markets Authority (“ESMA”) continues to conclude in the context of its regular risk assessment that risks persist overall at a high or very high level. ESMA last confirmed its assessment on 9 September 2025 in connection with the publication of the ESMA Trends, Risks and Vulnerabilities report – Risk Monitor (TRV Risk Monitor report) No. 2, 2025. The report highlights that markets under ESMA's remit experienced high volatility in the first four months of 2025 but demonstrated resilience throughout the first half of 2025. The report further states that "policy uncertainty materialised in March and April 2025 with the US administration's tariff announcements, as well as the change in stance of German fiscal policy". It notes that "short-term market movements were historically large, with sharp equity drawdowns and credit spread spikes, followed by a swift rebound in valuations amid sustained high volatility". Looking ahead, the report highlights that "the impact of tariffs raises concerns of market corrections, weaker economic outlook, and inflationary pressures." It also emphasizes that "persistently elevated equity and crypto-asset valuations amplify the risk of market corrections, especially under very high market reactivity." Furthermore, the report identifies that "risks are compounded by the increased likelihood of technological disruptions, particularly from cyber and hybrid threats". ESMA identifies the following key risk drivers in its report: "geopolitical and peripheral risks, uncertainty from a fundamental shift in the macroeconomic context, operational and technology disruptions, green transition risks, and exposures to behavioural biases in investing".

If adverse effects on the repayment of the Warrants are to be expected due to the development of the Underlying, this will have an adverse effect on the market price of the Warrants. The market price of the Warrants may be lower during the course of their term than their initial issue price or the purchase price that was paid for them or, in the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, lower than the Initial Cash Value Long (in the case of Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term)) or the Initial Cash Value Short (in the case of Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term)), and if the Warrants are sold or otherwise disposed of before the end of the term, the sale proceeds obtained may be lower than the Invested Capital. Market price risks may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

b) Risks relating to a secondary market for the Warrants

The risk factors “Non-development of a liquid secondary market” and “Non-maintenance of a secondary market” are assessed to be the most important risk factors in this subcategory.

Non-development of a liquid secondary market

Warrant Holders do not receive any payments prior to the redemption of the Warrants, unless the Warrants are issued with an exercise right, and can therefore only obtain revenue prior to the redemption of the Warrants by selling the Warrants on the secondary market.

The Issuer intends to provide bid and ask prices for the Warrants of an issue quoted by a company affiliated with it on a regular basis under normal market conditions.

The Warrants to be issued under this Prospectus may also be included in the open market of one or more stock exchange(s) specified in the Final Terms, or be the object of a request for admission to trading on the regulated market or equivalent markets.

However, it cannot be foreseen whether and to what extent a secondary market for the Warrants will develop and how liquid this market will be, or whether the Warrants will actually be traded on such a secondary market.

If a liquid secondary market for the Warrants does not develop, this can therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, and in significant losses if the Warrants perform negatively between the intended date of sale and the date of actual redemption of the Warrants.

Non-maintenance of a secondary market

The Issuer does not warrant the level, the manner of determination or permanent availability of secondary market prices. The Issuer does not assume any obligation towards (potential) investors to provide permanent bid and ask prices for the Warrants or to maintain this activity for the entire term of the Warrants. It is not ensured that the Warrants can be purchased or sold or otherwise disposed of at a particular time during their term.

In the event that the Warrants are included in any open market or admitted to trading in a regulated market or other equivalent markets, the Issuer also does not guarantee that the inclusion in trading will be maintained throughout the term of the Warrants. The last day on which the Warrants are traded on the stock exchange is expected to be one or two trading day(s) before the Valuation Date.

If a secondary market for the Warrants is not maintained, this can result in the income from the Warrants being limited, and in significant losses if the Warrants perform negatively between the intended date of sale and the date of actual redemption of the Warrants.

Risks associated with price determination on the secondary market

Moreover, it is not clear at what price the Warrants would be traded on such a secondary market, or whether rules would restrict their purchase and sale and thus their tradability.

It is not ensured that the Warrants can be purchased or sold or otherwise disposed of at a particular time or at a particular price during their term. Delays during the price determination may occur, for example, as a result of Market Disruptions or system problems. In the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, trading in the Warrants is suspended in particular in the event that a Reset Event pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants occurs, with the suspension usually continuing until the Reset Price is determined.

Moreover, the value of a Warrant that can be realised on a secondary market may be significantly lower than the actual value of the Warrant. Among other things, it cannot be excluded that a transaction fee may be charged on the sale of a Warrant.

The Issuer or any company of BNP Paribas Group may purchase Warrants on the open market or through an individual contract at any time, thereby restricting trade on the secondary market or making it more difficult, and thus potentially influencing the price of individual Warrants. The Issuer will not inform Warrant Holders about any such purchase or sale. Warrant Holders must form their own picture of the performance of the Warrants and other events which may have an impact on the development of their price.

Risks associated with price determination on the secondary market can result in the income from the Warrants being limited, and in significant losses if the Warrants perform negatively between the intended date of sale and the date of actual redemption of the Warrants.

c) Risks related to the transfer of uncertificated securities registered with an Intermediary other than SIX SIS AG

Prospective investors should be aware that Warrants that are registered with an Intermediary other than SIX SIS AG will not be registered with SIX SIS AG or any other central securities depository. As a consequence, they are not transferable except to transferee(s) that have a securities account with either the Intermediary or another securities intermediary maintaining securities account(s) (directly or indirectly) with the Intermediary. This limitation on the transferability of such Securities may have a negative effect on the liquidity and value of such Securities.

d) Risks from potential conflicts of interest

The Issuer, the Offeror BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may pursue interests that conflict with Warrant Holders' interests. This may occur in connection with the Underlying, the performance of further transactions, business relationships with the issuer of the Underlying or the performance of other functions. The risk factors "Information relating to the Underlying" and "Further transactions" are assessed to be the most important risk factors in this subcategory.

Information relating to the Underlying

The Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may have or obtain material non-public information about the Underlying. The Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them have no obligation to disclose such information to the Warrant Holders. Warrant Holders may therefore make wrong decisions in relation to the Warrants due to missing, incomplete or inaccurate information about the Underlying. These business relationships may result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Lack of information about the Underlying may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Further transactions

The Offeror and the Guarantor as well as the companies affiliated with them operate on the international and German securities exchange, credit derivatives and commodities markets on a daily basis. Therefore, they may enter into transactions relating directly or indirectly to the Warrants – whether for their own account or for the account of customers. Moreover, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may enter into transactions in the respective Underlying. Transactions of this kind may have an adverse effect on the performance of the Underlying. They may thus also have an adverse effect on the value and/or the tradability of the Warrants. It should be noted in this context that the Offeror, the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may pursue economic interests that conflict with Warrant Holders' interests.

The value of the Warrants may also be affected by the termination of these hedge transactions or any part thereof.

The Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may purchase and sell Warrants for their own account or for the account of third parties. The Issuer and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may also issue further Warrants. These transactions may reduce the value of the Warrants. The introduction of further competing products into the market may also affect the value of the Warrants.

Further transactions of this kind may result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Business relationships

The Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may have a business relationship with the issuer of the respective Underlying. Such a business relationship may be characterised, for example, by advisory and trading activities. The Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may take such action in this context as they deem appropriate to defend their own interests arising from this business relationship. In doing so, the Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them do not necessarily have to take appropriate account of the effects this has on the Warrants and Warrant Holders. This may give rise to a conflict of interest on the part of the Issuer and/or the Offeror and/or the Guarantor and/or the companies affiliated with them. The Issuer, the Offeror and the Guarantor as well as companies affiliated with them may carry out transactions and enter into or be a party to transactions which have an influence on the value of the Underlying. This kind of business relationships with the issuer of the Underlying may have an adverse effect on the Warrants. These business relationships may result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Price determination by the Guarantor or companies affiliated with it

As part of their market making activities, the Offeror, the Guarantor or any company affiliated with them in their capacity as market maker (hereinafter referred to as the "Market Maker") have a decisive role in determining the price of the Warrants. The prices quoted by the Market Maker will not always correspond to the prices that would have developed in liquid trading on a stock exchange.

As part of the market making process, some costs are deducted over the term of the Warrants when the price of the Warrants is determined. However, this is not always done evenly over the term of the Warrants. Costs may be deducted from the fair value of the Warrants in full at an early point to be determined by the Market Maker. The prices quoted by the Market Maker may therefore differ significantly from the fair value or the price of the Warrants to be expected from an economic perspective. Furthermore, the Market Maker may change the method based on which it determines the quoted prices at any time. For example, it may enlarge or reduce the spread between bid and offer prices.

Moreover, the Offeror, the Guarantor or any company affiliated with them may also act as market maker for the Underlying. Market making may have a significant influence on the price of the Underlying and, consequently, also on the value of the Warrants.

Pricing on the secondary market may also be influenced by other factors. These include dividends or other distributions paid or expected to be paid on the Underlying.

Conflicts of interest regarding the pricing by the Offeror, the Guarantor or companies affiliated with them may result in additional costs for the Warrant Holder, or in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

e) Risks in terminating hedge transactions of the Issuer or Offeror

The termination of hedge transactions the Issuer entered into when issuing the Warrants may adversely affect payments to be made under the Warrants.

The Issuer may hedge against the financial risks associated with the issuance of the Warrants directly or indirectly, e.g. via the Offeror, at its own discretion (so-called “hedging transactions”). If the Warrants are redeemed/repaid or terminated by the Issuer, this results in such hedging transactions being terminated, too. The number of hedging transactions to be terminated as aforesaid depends on the number of Warrants to be redeemed. If a large number of hedging transactions is terminated, this may have an influence on the price of the Underlying and thus on the Redemption Amount.

Example: The Issuer sells a Warrant the redemption/repayment of which depends on the price of a specific share. The Issuer hedges its future payment obligations under the Warrant by purchasing the share concerned (hedging transaction). Before maturity, the Issuer sells the share on the stock exchange (termination of the hedging transaction). The sale takes place on the Valuation Date of the Warrants. If a large number of shares is sold because a large number of Warrants becomes mature, their sale may push the stock exchange price of the share down. However, the Redemption Amount for the Warrants depends on the stock exchange price of the share on the Valuation Date. Therefore, the termination of the hedging transaction may have an adverse effect on the level of the Redemption Amount for the Warrants. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

f) Risks relating to taxation

The risk factors “Change in tax treatment of the Warrants” and “US foreign account tax compliance withholding” are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Change in tax treatment of the Warrants

Given that, to this date, there exists only a small number of judgments of the highest court instances or clear orders of the fiscal authorities regarding investment instruments like the present Warrants in the Federal Republic of Germany, it cannot be excluded that the fiscal authorities may consider a tax treatment to be applicable that could not be foreseen at the time the Warrants were issued. In addition to this estimation risk, it cannot be excluded that the tax treatment may change due to future or retrospective changes in German tax law. These estimation risks and risks of tax law changes also exist with respect to all other jurisdictions concerned. A risk of tax law changes exists also in those other jurisdictions.

Such tax law changes may have adverse consequences for Warrant Holders. For example, the Warrants may be less liquid, or the amounts payable to Warrant Holders may be lower than what they expected due to tax law changes.

Changes in the tax treatment of the Warrants may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

US foreign account tax compliance withholding

In implementing the foreign account tax compliance provisions of the US Hiring Incentives to Restore Employment Act 2010 (“FATCA”), tax withholdings of 30% may apply to all or any of the payments to be made by the Issuer and companies affiliated with it on the Warrants. The Warrants are held in custody by the Clearing System in global form, which makes withholding from payments to the Clearing System unlikely. However, FATCA may also be applicable to the downstream chain of payments.

If an amount in respect of US withholding tax were to be deducted or withheld from interest, principal or other payments on the Warrants due to FATCA, neither the Issuer nor any paying agent nor any other person would, pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, be required to pay additional amounts to investors as a result of the deduction or withholding of such tax. As a result, investors may receive less interest or principal than expected.

Such a withholding of tax may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Risks relating to withholding of US withholding tax

Section 871(m) of the US Internal Revenue Code and the regulations promulgated thereunder impose a tax withholding (of up to 30% depending on the applicability of double taxation treaties) with respect to certain financial instruments (e.g. Warrants linked to US equities or US indices as Underlying) to the extent that payments (or deemed payments) on such financial instruments are contingent upon or determined by reference to US-source dividends.

Therefore, the risk involved for Warrant Holders in Warrants linked to US equities or US indices as Underlying is that payments on the Warrants may be subject to US withholding tax under section 871(m) of the US Internal Revenue Code.

Furthermore, there is a risk that section 871(m) must also be applied to Warrants that were originally not subject to the tax withholding. This may be the case in particular if the economic characters of the Warrants change to the effect that the Warrants end up being subject to tax and the Issuer continues to issue and sell the Warrants concerned.

If an amount is deducted or withheld from interest, principal or other payments on the Warrants due to section 871(m), neither the Issuer nor any paying agent nor any other person would, pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, be required to pay additional amounts to the Warrant Holders as a result of the deduction or withholding of such tax. As a result, Warrant Holders may receive less interest or principal than expected.

Even if the beneficiary is subject to a reduced tax rate with respect to a payment under a double taxation treaty, an amount too high may be withheld and the beneficial owner may not be able to receive a refund. In this case, the Issuer will not be able to help with the double taxation treaty or with any refund claims thereunder.

Such a withholding of tax or non-receipt of a refund may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Risks relating to withholding tax provisions in France

Securities that directly or indirectly reference the performance of French equities (including an index or basket that includes French equities) may be subject to withholding tax pursuant to Article 119 bis A of the French Tax Code (as amended or clarified by any relevant regulations).

Therefore, the risk involved for Warrant Holders in Warrants linked to French equities or French indices as Underlying is that payments or transfers of value on the Warrants may be subject to French withholding tax under Article 119 bis A of the French Tax Code, as a result of dividend distributions made at the level of the Underlying.

If an amount is deducted or withheld from interest, principal or other payments on the Warrants due to Article 119 bis A of the French Tax Code, neither the Issuer nor any paying agent nor any other person would, pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, be required to pay additional amounts to the Warrant Holders as a result of the deduction or withholding of such tax. As a result, Warrant Holders may receive less interest or principal than expected.

Even if the beneficiary is subject to a reduced tax rate with respect to a payment under a double taxation treaty, an amount too high may be withheld and the beneficial owner may not be able to receive a refund. In this case, the Issuer will not be able to help with the double taxation treaty or with any refund claims thereunder.

Such a withholding of tax or non-receipt of a refund may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses.

Risks in connection with the Tax Haven Defence Act

The German Tax Haven Defence Act (Steueroasen-Abwehrgesetz), which is applicable in relation to withholding tax measures since 1 January 2022, regulates a withholding tax with respect to income from financing relationships earned by persons (including legal entities, associations of persons and estates) who are resident in non-cooperative tax jurisdictions. It has not yet been conclusively determined whether and under what conditions such withholding by the Issuer is required with respect to payments under the Warrants. The 2022 German Annual Tax Act (Jahressteuergesetz 2022) provides that bearer bonds evidenced by a permanent global bearer note and held in collective safe custody with a central depository and comparable debt instruments tradable on a recognized stock exchange within the meaning of Sec. 138 para. 2 sentence 1 No. 3 letter b) sentence 2 of the German Fiscal Code (Abgabenordnung) do not qualify as financing relationships. To the extent that securities under this Base Prospectus do not meet the aforementioned requirements for non-qualification as a financing relationship, a withholding of tax cannot be excluded.

Such a withholding of tax or non-receipt of a refund may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the extreme case, even in significant losses for the Warrant Holder resident in non-cooperative tax jurisdictions.

g) Specific risks associated with the involvement of a depositary or registrar

If provided for in the applicable Final Terms, the Warrants may be securitised and issued in the form of a note (Urkundenform) or issued in the form of Central Register Securities (Zentralregisterwertpapiere). Global notes are held in custody and maintained by the depositary. Individual notes are not issued. Central Register Securities are registered in the name of the relevant clearing system acting as central depository for securities (Wertpapiersammelbank). The relevant central depository for securities is registered as the bearer of the Central Register Securities (collective safe custody entry - Sammeleintragung). Individual entries in the central register will not be made. The depositary will maintain the records relating to the rights arising from the global note and the registrar will maintain the central register for the Central Register Securities in accordance with the statutory requirements. Warrant Holders may assert their claims against the depositary or the respective clearing system only in accordance with its regulations as well as the statutory provisions.

The Issuer will provide its payment obligations arising from the Warrants with debt-discharging effect to the depositary or the registrar for purposes of transfer to their respective account or custody account holders. Thus, in the event of a default by these entities, no further payment will be made to the Warrant Holders. Warrant Holders rely on the procedures of the depositary or the registrar, as the case may be, to receive payments due on the Warrant.

In the event that the depositary or the registrar fails to or is delayed in making payments under the Warrants, Warrant Holders are subject to the risk of late payments or loss of principal. The insolvency of the depositary or the registrar may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

h) Risk in the case of a redemption of the Warrants in a different currency than the currency of the Warrant Holder's account

Warrant Holders bear a currency risk if the Warrant Holder's account is held in a currency different from the Settlement Currency of the Warrant.

A currency risk exists if the account of the Warrant Holder to which the Redemption Amount or any other amount owed is paid is managed in a currency different from the Settlement Currency of the Warrant as in this case the relevant Redemption Amount or any other amount owed under the Warrants requires conversion into the currency of the Warrant Holder's account. If the exchange rate used for this conversion is unfavourable for the Warrant Holder, the amount transferred is reduced accordingly.

This may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited and, in the event of a very negative development of the exchange rate, even in significant losses for the Warrant Holder.

5. Risks associated with the Underlying

For the purposes of this section "Risks associated with the Underlying", the term "Underlying" may also include the (relevant) Underlying assets and the (relevant) components comprised therein.

This category of risk factors describes the risk factors relating to an Underlying in general and specifically in relation to certain specific Underlyings.

a) Risks characteristic of all Underlyings

The risk factors "Dependence on the development of the price of the Underlying" and "Risks associated with underlyings governed by the laws of emerging market jurisdictions" are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Dependence on the development of the price of the Underlying

The Issuer's selection of the Underlying is not necessarily based on its assessment of the future performance of the selected Underlying.

Changes in the price of the Underlying and thus of the Warrants may occur as a consequence of companies of the BNP Paribas Group entering into hedging transactions or other transactions in the Underlying or based on the Underlying or, if applicable, on the assets included in the Underlying. This may have an adverse effect on the amounts to be paid under the Warrants. Depending on the number of Warrants terminated or exercised or to be redeemed, as applicable, and of the hedging transactions to be terminated in turn for that, and depending on the market situation and liquidity situation existing at the relevant point in time, this may have an adverse effect on the Underlying and thus also on the amounts to be paid under the Warrants. In the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, it should be noted in this context that the Leverage Factor also has an impact on the size of the positions in the Underlying in respect of which the hedge transactions must be entered into.

It should be noted that if the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to changes, this may result in the Redemption Amount, depending on the development of the price of the Underlying, potentially being significantly lower than the purchase price paid for the Warrant and, as a result, the Warrant Holder suffering a significant loss of its Invested Capital.

In the case of an UNLIMITED TURBO Warrant, a TURBO Warrant or an Inline Warrant, price changes may result in a Knock-Out Event in certain circumstances.

In the case of a MINI Future Warrant, price changes may result in a Stop-Loss Event in certain circumstances.

In the case of a Constant Leverage Warrant, further risks arise from the multiplication of the Performance of the Underlying by the Leverage Factor. For example, it should be noted that if the price of the Underlying the Constant Leverage Warrant is linked to changes, this may result in the Redemption Amount, depending on the Performance of the Underlying, and taking into account the Leverage Factor and the Financing Component, potentially being significantly lower than the purchase price paid for the Constant Leverage Warrant and, as a result, the Warrant Holder suffering a significant loss in relation to the purchase price paid for the Warrant. Moreover, due to the Leverage Factor, price changes of the Underlying have a disproportionately high impact on the value of the Warrant. The risk of loss is essentially determined by the value of the Leverage Factor: the higher the Leverage Factor the greater the risk.

An essential characteristic of a Warrant is the so-called leverage effect: If the value of the Underlying (or the value of a component included in the Underlying, if applicable) changes, this may cause the value of the Warrant to change proportionally more than the change in value of the Underlying. Therefore, there are higher risks of loss associated with the Warrant than with other investments. Therefore, it should be considered when purchasing a particular Warrant that the greater its leverage effect, the greater the risk of loss associated with it.

There may be an extended period of time specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants between the Valuation Date and the Settlement Date for payment of the Redemption Amount. The Warrant Holders no longer participate in any price changes of the Underlying during this period.

The development of the price of the Warrants depends highly on the expected and actual performance of the Underlying. Depending on the nature of the Underlying, the performance of the Underlying is influenced by a number of factors, including:

- the actual and expected economic development of individual companies, industries, regions, commodity markets, other procurement and sales markets,
- the level of interest and prices in capital markets,
- the development of price levels and exchange rates and
- the political situation.

The reference to an Underlying is associated with risks that may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants.

If the Underlying performs adversely, this may result in the income of the Warrant Holder being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Risks associated with underlyings governed by the laws of emerging market jurisdictions

An Underlying may be governed by the laws of the jurisdiction of an emerging or developing country. An investment in Warrants linked to such an Underlying is therefore associated with additional legal, political and economic risks, including the risk of currency depreciation, compared to an investment in an Underlying that is not subject to the jurisdiction of an emerging or developing country.

Emerging and developing countries are exposed to significant legal, economic and political risks that may be greater than those in, for example, EU Member States or other industrial countries. Therefore, investments related to emerging or development countries involve not only the general risks associated with the investment in the respective Underlying but also additional risk factors. These include the unstable political or economic situation, increased inflation and increased currency risks. The instability of these countries may be caused, inter alia, by authoritarian governments or military involvement in political and economic decision-making, including changes or attempted changes in governments through extra-constitutional means, popular unrest associated with demands for improved political, economic and social conditions, hostile relations with neighbouring countries or ethnic, religious or racial conflicts. Political or economic instability may affect the trust of investors, which again may have an adverse effect on the currency exchange rates and prices of securities or other assets in those countries.

Moreover, there may be less publicly available information about Underlyings that are subject to the laws of emerging or developing countries than what is normally made available to Warrant Holders. Transparency requirements, accounting, auditing or financial reporting and regulatory standards are in many respects less stringent than the standards in industrial countries. Although the market volume of some financial markets in emerging economies is growing overall, their trading volume is significantly lower than that of developed markets, and the securities of many companies are less liquid and their prices are subject to greater fluctuations than securities of similar companies in developed markets.

All of the aforementioned factors may have an adverse influence on the Warrants. Moreover, if provided for in the relevant Final Terms, each of these adverse impacts may also give rise to what is referred to as an Emerging Country Market Disruption pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and may thus affect the value of the Warrants and delay payment of the respective amount to be paid. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Risks associated with effects of regulation and Benchmark reform

The Euro Interbank Offered Rate (“EURIBOR”), the London Interbank Offered Rate (“LIBOR”), the Sterling Overnight Index Average (“SONIA”), the Secured Overnight Financing Rate (“SOFR”), the Swiss Average Rate Overnight (“SARON”), the Tokyo Overnight Average Rate (“TONAR”) and indices, including (but not limited to) indices composed of interest rates, shares, commodities, commodity indices, exchange traded products, currency exchange rates, funds and combinations of these types of indices may be regarded as “Benchmarks” which are the subject of recent national, international and other supervisory requirements and proposals for reform.

The most important international regulatory initiatives associated with the benchmark reform include the Principles for Financial Benchmarks published by the International Organization of Securities Commissions (IOSCO) in July 2013 (the “IOSCO Principles”) and Regulation (EU) 2016/1011 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2016 on indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts or to measure the performance of investment funds and amending Directives 2008/48/EC and 2014/17/EU and Regulation (EU) No. 596/2014 (the “EU Benchmark Regulation”). The objective of the IOSCO Principles is to create an overarching framework of principles for Benchmarks used in financial markets, including (inter alia) for control and accountability and for the quality, integrity and transparency of benchmark development and determination and the methods used. A review published by IOSCO in February 2015 about the extent of the voluntary market adoption of the IOSCO Principles found that significant but uneven progress had been made on implementing the IOSCO Principles. However, given that the financial Benchmarks industry is in a state of change, further steps may need to be taken by IOSCO in the future.

The EU Benchmark Regulation was published in the Official Journal of the EU on 29 June 2016. Most provisions of the EU Benchmark Regulation have been in effect since 1 January 2018, except for some provisions (mostly relating to critical Benchmarks) that have applied since 30 June 2016. The EU Benchmark Regulation applies to the provision of Benchmarks, contribution of input data to a Benchmark and the use of a Benchmark within the European Union. Among other things, it requires that administrators of Benchmarks must be authorised or registered (or, if they are based outside the EU, must be subject to an equivalence regime or otherwise recognised or endorsed) and meet comprehensive requirements in relation to the administration of Benchmarks. Furthermore, it prevents a certain use of Benchmarks provided by administrators who are not authorised/registered (or, if they are based outside the EU, not recognised as equivalent or endorsed) by supervised entities in the EU. The EU Benchmark Regulation has a broad scope of application and applies not only to Benchmarks designated as critical such as the EURIBOR but also to many other indices (including “proprietary” indices) that are used, for example, to determine the amount to be paid or the value or performance of certain financial instruments for which a request for admission to trading on a trading venue has been made or which are traded on a trading venue (EU – regulated market, EU multilateral trading facility (“MTF”), EU organised trading facility (“OTF”) or via a systematic internaliser.

The EU Benchmark Regulation could have a significant impact on Warrants that are linked to a Benchmark as defined in the EU Benchmark Regulation, including any of the following circumstances:

- Subject to any applicable transitional provisions, an index which is a “Benchmark” cannot be used by a supervised entity in a certain manner if the administrator of the Benchmark or (if the Benchmark is provided by administrators based outside the EU) the Benchmark is not entered in ESMA’s register of Administrators/Benchmarks authorised under the EU Benchmark Regulation, or has been removed from this register (e.g. if the administrator does not obtain or retain the authorisation or registration under the EU Benchmark Regulation or, if the administrator is based in a non-EU jurisdiction, does not obtain or retain recognition or endorsement and the administrator or Benchmark is not recognised as equivalent);
- The methodology or other terms of the Benchmark could be changed in order to comply with the provisions of the EU Benchmark Regulation; and
- The contingency plans laid down in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants may apply or, if a Potential Adjustment Event is specified as applying in the applicable Final Terms, the Calculation Agent may change the terms of the Warrants in the event that the Benchmark materially changes or ceases to be provided, in order to comply with the provisions of the EU Benchmark Regulation (see “Potential Adjustment Event” below).

Any of the above changes or any other consequential changes to a Benchmark as a result of international, national or other reforms, initiatives or investigations or the general increased regulatory scrutiny of Benchmarks could potentially have an adverse effect on the relevant Benchmark or have other unforeseen consequences, including, without limitation, that such changes could:

- affect the level of the published rate or the level of the Benchmark, which in turn may have the effect of reducing, increasing or otherwise affecting the volatility of the published rate or level;
- increase the costs and risks of administering or otherwise participating in the setting of a Benchmark and complying with such regulations or requirements;
- discourage market participants from continuing to administer or contribute to certain Benchmarks;
- trigger changes in the rules or methodologies used in certain Benchmarks;
- lead to the disappearance of certain Benchmarks (or certain currencies or tenors of Benchmarks); or
- have other adverse effects or unforeseen consequences.

Any such consequences could have a material adverse effect on the value of and yield from any Warrants and/or could lead to the Warrants being de-listed, adjusted or redeemed early following the occurrence of a Potential Adjustment Event, subject to the discretionary decision of the Calculation Agent or for other reasons, depending on the particular Benchmark and the applicable Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

b) Risks associated with shares (or other equity securities (e.g. profit participation certificates)) as Underlying

If the Underlying is a share or other equity security (e.g. a profit participation certificate) (hereinafter referred to as the “Share”), the following risks associated specifically with Shares as the Underlying should be observed. The risk factors “Specific risks associated with the development of the price of Shares” and “Risks similar to those associated with direct investment in Shares” are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Specific risks associated with the development of the price of Shares

The development of the price of a Share used as Underlying depends on the performance of the company issuing the Shares. However, the price of a Share may also be subject to fluctuation or adverse changes in value independent of the assets and liabilities, financial position, liquidity and profit or loss of the company issuing the Shares. In particular, it may be influenced by the general state of the economy and stock market sentiment.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Risks similar to those associated with direct investment in Shares

The development of the market price of Warrants with a Share as Underlying depends on the development of the price the Share. The development of the price of a Share may be subject to factors like the dividend or distribution policy, financial prospects, market position, corporate actions, shareholder structure and risk situation of the issuer of the Share, short selling activities, low market liquidity as well as political influences. Accordingly, an investment in a Warrant with a Share as Underlying may be subject to similar risks as a direct investment in Shares.

The development of the price of the Share may be subject to factors outside the Issuer's sphere of influence, such as the risk of the relevant company becoming illiquid, or insolvency proceedings or similar proceedings under the laws applicable to the company being opened over the company's assets or similar events taking place with regard to the company, which may result in a total loss of the Invested Capital for the Warrant Holder, or the risk of the share price being subject to great fluctuation.

In addition, the performance of the Shares depends particularly on the development of the capital markets, which in turn are influenced by the global situation and the specific economic and political environment. Shares in companies with low or average market capitalisation may be subject to even higher risks (e.g. with regard to volatility or insolvency) than Shares in larger companies. Furthermore, shares in companies with low market capitalisation may be extremely illiquid due to smaller trading volumes. Shares in companies having their seat or exerting their relevant operations in countries with a high legal uncertainty are subject to additional risks, such as the risk of governmental measures being taken or nationalisation taking place.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Currency risks

If the investments of the company whose Shares are used as Underlying are denominated in a currency other than the currency in which the value of the Shares is calculated, additional correlation risks may arise. These correlation risks concern the degree of dependency of the development of exchange rates of such Foreign Currency to the currency in which the value of the Share is calculated. Such risks can also not be excluded by potential hedging transactions of a stock corporation.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Issuer's conflicts of interest with regard to the Share

It is possible that the Issuer or the companies affiliated with it hold Shares in the company which has issued the Underlying, which may result in conflicts of interest. The Issuer and the companies affiliated with it may also decide not to hold the Underlying or not to enter into any derivative contracts linked to the Share. Neither the Issuer nor the companies affiliated with it are limited in selling, pledging or otherwise transferring rights, claims and holdings regarding the Underlying or derivative contracts linked to the Underlying solely based on the fact that the Warrants were issued.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

c) Risks associated with indices as Underlying

The risk factors “Risk of changes in the calculation of the index” and “Non-consideration of payments of dividends or other distributions if price indices are used as Underlying” are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Risk of changes in the calculation of the index

If the Underlying is an index, the rules of the index are subject to change by the sponsor of the index. In this case, the Issuer has no influence on any such changes.

If, as indicated in the applicable Final Terms, an index is provided by a legal entity or a natural person acting in association with, or on behalf of, the Issuer, the rules of the index (including the methodology of the index for the selection and the re-balancing of the Index Components and the description of Market Disruptions and adjustment rules) are based on predetermined and objective criteria and, as a result of that, any influence of the Issuer is excluded.

Provisions for calculating the rates of the index are specified by the sponsor of the index in the set of rules governing the index. Therefore, the Issuer has no influence on the calculation of the rates by the sponsor of the index or on potential changes to the set of rules that may have an influence on the calculation of the rates. Moreover, investors should consider that the official rates of the index calculated by the sponsor of the index during the applicable stock exchange trading hours may differ, possibly significantly, from potential pre or post market rates of the index and from prices of futures or option contracts linked to the index.

Therefore, if an index is used as an Underlying, no guarantee can be given that the calculation methods used will not be modified or changed in a manner that may (adversely) affect payments to the Warrant Holders.

The sponsor of the index or the person responsible for the composition of the index and the Issuer may become subject to new legislative requirements during the term of the Warrants regarding the publication and use of an index which may make it necessary for the sponsor of the index or the person responsible for the composition of the index to become authorised or registered and for the index to be changed in order to comply with the statutory requirements. In this context, it cannot be excluded that an index may be changed in substance, is no longer updated or can no longer be used, in particular if it is not authorised or registered or its authorisation or registration subsequently ceases to apply (see also the subsection entitled “Risks associated with effects of regulation and Benchmark reform” above). In these cases, it should be noted that it is at the discretion of the Issuer to make adjustments to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or, if applicable, to terminate the Warrants by extraordinary termination.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Non-consideration of payments of dividends or other distributions if price indices are used as Underlying

If the Underlying is a price index, it should be noted that, unlike what is the case with performance indices, distributions of dividend on the shares included in the Underlying do not result in an increase of the level of the Underlying. Therefore, investors do not benefit from dividends or other distributions on the shares included in a price index.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Risks relating to payments of dividends and other distributions in the event that performance indices are used as Underlying

If the Underlying is a performance index, it should be noted that, unlike what is the case with price indices, payments of dividends or other distributions in the shares included in the index are taken into account in determining the level of the index. Accordingly, there is a risk that a limit, barrier or threshold relevant under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants may be breached solely by taking such payments of Dividend or other distributions into account in determining the rate of the index.

This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Special political risks in connection with indices as Underlying Indices as underlyings may be subject to special political risks, in particular depending on their geographical focus. In connection with political developments, there is the risk that a certain index in a first step is or cannot be calculated temporarily, for a longer period of time or permanently. In a second step, there is the risk of a temporary or permanent suspension of an index. This may even result in the Issuer being entitled to an extraordinary termination in accordance with the terms and conditions of the Warrants for reasons which do not simultaneously constitute a market disruption. This may result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

d) Risks associated with futures contracts as Underlying

If the Underlying is a futures contract linked to shares (or other equity securities (e.g. profit participation certificates)), indices, currency exchange rates or depositary receipts, potential investors should take the risks specified in the subsections entitled “Shares (or other equity securities (e.g. profit participation certificates))”, “Indices”, “Currency exchange rates” and “Depositary Receipts”, respectively, duly into account.

“Risks associated with a Roll-Over” and “Special risks associated with futures contracts linked to metals and commodities” are assessed to be the most important risks in this subcategory.

Risks associated with a Roll-Over

If the Underlying consists of futures contracts and the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants provide for a so-called Roll-Over, the following risks may arise in connection with the Roll-Over:

At a point in time specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Underlying is replaced by another futures contract with a later Expiry Date. Although the replacing futures contract has the same specifications (except for the term) as the Underlying being replaced, price deviations may occur that have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants and may thus result in a loss on the investor’s investment in the Warrants.

If the Calculation Agent determines that a futures contract having the same contract specifications and terms as the Underlying to be replaced does not exist at the time of the Roll-Over, the Issuer has the right either (i) to replace the Underlying by a successor futures contract which, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, has similar contract specifications and terms as the Underlying and/or to adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or (ii) to terminate the Warrants by extraordinary termination. In the context of such a change, it cannot be excluded that price losses of the Warrants (up to a total loss of the Invested Capital) may occur, or it may not be possible to realise future price gains of the Warrants due to an early termination.

Risks associated with a Roll-Over may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Special risks associated with futures contracts linked to metals and commodities

Futures contracts linked to metals and commodities are associated with special risks typical of the Underlying.

An investment in a Warrant with a futures contract linked to a metal or commodity as Underlying is subject to similar risks as a direct investment in the commodity(ies) or metal(s) concerned. Most commodities (e.g. oil, gas, wheat, corn) and metals (e.g. gold, silver) are traded on specialised exchanges and directly among market participants “over the counter” (in the OTC market). Investments in commodities and metals – and thus also investment in futures contracts linked to commodities and metals – are associated with greater risks than investments in bonds, currencies or shares because prices in this asset class are subject to greater fluctuation (known as volatility) because commodities and metals are sometimes also traded for speculative purposes and this asset class may be less liquid than, for example, shares traded in stock markets.

Commodity and metal prices are influenced by factors including, but not limited to: supply and demand; financial speculation; production bottlenecks; supply shortages; small number of market participants; production in emerging markets (political unrest, economic crises); political risks (war, terror); adverse weather conditions; natural disasters.

A number of companies or countries active in the production of commodities and metals have formed organisations or cartels in order to regulate supply and thus prices. On the other hand, trade in commodities and metals is subject to regulatory provisions or market rules the application of which may also adversely affect the development of prices of the commodities and metals concerned.

Many commodity and metal markets are not particularly liquid and able to react quickly and in a sufficient scope to changes in the supply and demand situation. In the event of low liquidity, speculative investments by a small number of market participants may cause price distortions.

Metals are often produced in emerging markets and in demand from industrial countries. Often, however, the political and economic situation in emerging markets is less stable than in industrial countries. They are more susceptible to the risk associated with swift political changes and economic downturn. Political crises may shake the confidence of investors which, in turn, may affect the prices of commodities. Military or other conflicts may change the supply and demand patterns of certain metals. Moreover, industrial countries may impose embargos on exported or imported metals and services, which may have a direct or indirect impact on the price of the metal.

Special risks associated with futures contracts linked to metals and commodities may result in the return on Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

Special Risks associated with futures contracts linked to crypto-assets Futures contracts linked to crypto-assets are associated with special risks typical of the Underlying.

An investment in a Warrant with a futures contract linked to a crypto-asset as Underlying is subject to similar or, in some cases, even higher risks than a direct investment in the crypto-asset.

According to Article 3 (1) (5) of Regulation (EU) 2023/1114 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 31 May 2023 on markets in crypto-assets (the “MiCA Regulation”), a “crypto-asset” is a digital representation of a value or of a right that is able to be transferred and stored electronically using distributed ledger technology or similar technology. Examples of crypto-assets include Bitcoin (BTC) and Ethereum (ETH).

An investment in crypto-assets – and thus also investments in futures contracts linked to crypto-assets – are associated with greater risks than investments in bonds, currencies, or shares because prices in this asset class are subject to greater fluctuations (known as volatility). Crypto-assets are not backed by any real assets, such as corporate assets or payment commitments. They therefore have no intrinsic value. Their price reflects only market participants' valuation, expected future use, and the dynamics of supply and demand. There is a lack of sound valuation models. Pricing processes are heavily driven by sentiment. Media reports and social media posts can trigger herd effects and thus significantly distort or influence pricing. As a result, the value of crypto-assets is more speculative and volatile than that of traditional assets, which reflect claims to income and profits, for example. In addition, political decisions, such as the creation of state "crypto reserves" and the consideration or disregard of various crypto-assets in this regard, can have a significant impact on pricing.

The price of crypto-assets is influenced by a multitude of factors that are difficult to comprehend and has often been subject to significant fluctuations in the past. Price movements can be abrupt and significant without any apparent fundamental cause. Price fluctuations can occur particularly in response to news events, protocol updates, regulatory announcements, or on weekends, when most trading venues are more illiquid than during normal trading hours. Market liquidity is fragmented across numerous trading venues. Low market depth, wide spreads, limited order books, and algorithmic trading can lead to significant price deviations and unexpected execution prices.

In addition, there are technical and network risks. Crypto-assets are generally based on decentralized networks that are operated by complex technical infrastructure such as blockchain protocols and consensus mechanisms (e.g., proof-of-work for Bitcoin and proof-of-stake for Ethereum). For instance, technical errors in the protocol, network attacks, or consensus problems during network updates (hard/soft forks or network splits) can lead to uncertainties, competing chains, and thus to losses in value. Due to the decentralized nature of the system, there is also no authority capable of restoring lost assets in the event of potentially large-scale losses due to, for example, cyber attacks on wallets, exchanges, or custodians.

In the absence of central oversight, crypto markets are exposed to an increased risk of market manipulation. The lack of transparency in trading activities can also lead to distorted price developments.

Advances in computing technology (e.g., quantum computing) or new attack vectors could weaken or render obsolete the cryptography currently in use. It is unclear how networks will respond to such threats, especially since potential migrations to new protocols are complex and risky.

The long-term value of a crypto-asset also depends on its acceptance and use. A lack of expansion in the use of certain crypto-assets could have a negative impact on their price. Even if the acceptance of certain crypto-assets increases in the short term, there is no guarantee that their use will actually increase in the long term or be sustained over time.

The use and acceptance of Bitcoin and other crypto-assets that could technically be used as means of payment (so-called "cryptocurrencies") remains very limited and may not be permanent. In addition, there is competition between cryptocurrencies themselves and between cryptocurrencies and digital central bank money, which could displace existing use cases. In this context, the development is also highly unclear. Therefore, digital central bank money could render other crypto assets obsolete as means of payment in the jurisdictions where it is introduced. The use of crypto assets as a means of payment could also be prohibited, which would make adaptation impossible.

Cryptocurrencies are subject to a rapidly changing and sometimes fragmented regulatory environment. Changes in legislation, new interpretations by supervisory authorities, or court rulings can alter the legal status of a cryptocurrency. This can result in trading restrictions, licensing requirements, registration and reporting requirements, or even bans, with immediate effects on tradability, liquidity, and pricing. In the past, certain countries have attempted to ban or banned the use of crypto-assets such as Bitcoin. In 2021, for example, Bitcoin transactions and Bitcoin mining were banned in China and crypto-assets were confiscated.

Reputation factors can also affect the use and price of crypto-assets. Among other things, there is criticism of energy consumption, governance structures, and the potentially illegal use of crypto-assets, which could hinder widespread acceptance and trigger regulatory measures.

e) Risks associated with currency exchange rates as Underlying

If the Underlying is a currency exchange rate, the following risks associated specifically with currency exchange rates as Underlying should be observed.

Warrants with a currency exchange rate as Underlying are linked to one or more specified currency(ies). Payments depend on the development of the underlying currency(ies) and may be significantly lower than the amount the Warrant Holder originally invested. An investment in Warrants with a currency exchange rate as Underlying may be subject to similar market risks as a direct investment in the underlying currency(ies) concerned. This applies in particular if the currency concerned is an emerging market currency. Potential investors should therefore be familiar with currencies as an asset class. Further statutory restrictions on free exchange may have an adverse effect on the value of the Warrants.

It should be noted that currency exchange rates as Underlying are traded 24 hours a day across the time zones of Australia, Asia, Europe and America. Potential purchasers of the Warrants should therefore consider that a relevant limit, barrier or threshold pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants may be reached, exceeded or fallen below at any time, including outside local trading hours or the trading hours of the Calculation Agent or the Offeror.

Risks associated with currency exchange rates as Underlying may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

f) Risks associated with Depositary Receipts as Underlying

If the Underlying is an American Depositary Receipt, Global Depositary Receipt or Ordinary Depositary Receipt (hereinafter referred to as “Depositary Receipts”), the following risks associated specifically with Depositary Receipts as Underlying should be observed.

American Depositary Receipts are securities issued in the United States of America by a depositary bank (Depositary) representing one or more shares of stock held in the country of domicile of the issuer of the underlying shares outside the USA.

Global Depositary Receipts are securities representing one or more shares of stock held in the country of domicile of the issuer of the underlying shares. Global Depositary Receipts are commonly offered to the public or issued outside the United States of America.

Ordinary Depositary Receipts are securities representing one or more shares of (ordinary) stock held in the country of domicile of the issuer of the underlying shares. Ordinary Depositary Receipts are offered to the public or issued in particular in the Netherlands.

Each Depositary Receipt represents one or more shares or a fraction of the warrant of a foreign stock corporation.

In the case of the Depositary Receipts, the legal owner of the underlying shares is the depositary bank which is at the same time the issue agent of the Depositary Receipts. Depending on the jurisdiction under which the Depositary Receipts were issued and on which jurisdiction governs the Custodian Agreement, it cannot be excluded that the holder of the Depositary Receipts will not be recognised under the applicable jurisdiction as the actual beneficial owner of the underlying shares. In particular in the event that the depositary bank (Depositary) becomes insolvent or enforcement actions are taken against it, it is possible that a restriction will be imposed on dispositions over the shares underlying the Depositary Receipts, or that the value of these shares will be realised through enforcement against the depositary bank (Depositary). If this is the case, the holder of the Depositary Receipt loses its rights in the underlying shares as represented by the Depositary Receipt. The Depositary Receipt as Underlying of the Warrants and thus also the Warrants linked to the Depositary Receipt concerned thereby become worthless.

As a result, investors carry a risk of default of both the depositary bank and the issuers of the shares underlying the Depositary Receipts. Investors should therefore also observe the risk factors associated with Shares as Underlying.

Risks associated with Depositary Receipts as Underlying may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

g) Risks associated with metals and commodities as Underlying

An investment in a Warrant with a commodity or metal as Underlying is subject to similar risks as a direct investment in the commodity(ies) or metal(s) concerned. Most commodities (e.g. oil, gas, wheat, corn) and metals (e.g. gold, silver) are traded on specialised exchanges and directly among market participants “over the counter” (in the OTC market). Investments in commodities and metals are associated with greater risks than investments in bonds, currencies or shares because prices in this asset class are subject to greater fluctuation (known as volatility) because commodities and metals are sometimes also traded for speculative purposes and this asset class may be less liquid than, for example, shares traded in stock markets.

Commodity and metal prices are influenced by factors including, but not limited to: supply and demand; financial speculation; production bottlenecks; supply shortages; small number of market participants; production in emerging markets (political unrest, economic crises); political risks (war, terror); adverse weather conditions; natural disasters.

It should be noted that metals or commodities used as Underlying are traded 24 hours a day across the time zones of Australia, Asia, Europe and America. Potential purchasers of the Warrants should therefore consider that a relevant limit, barrier or threshold pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants may be reached, exceeded or fallen below at any time, including outside local trading hours or the trading hours of the Calculation Agent or the Offeror.

A number of companies or countries active in the production of commodities and metals have formed organisations or cartels in order to regulate supply and thus prices. On the other hand, trade in commodities and metals is subject to regulatory provisions or market rules the application of which may also adversely affect the development of prices of the commodities and metals concerned.

Many commodity and metal markets are not particularly liquid and able to react quickly and in a sufficient scope to changes in the supply and demand situation. In the event of low liquidity, speculative investments by a small number of market participants may cause price distortions.

Metals and commodities are often produced in emerging markets and in demand from industrial countries. Often, however, the political and economic situation in emerging markets is less stable than in industrial countries. They are more susceptible to the risk associated with swift political changes and economic downturn. Political crises may shake the confidence of investors which, in turn, may affect the prices of goods. Military or other conflicts may change the supply and demand patterns of certain metals and commodities. Moreover, industrial countries may impose embargos on exported or imported metals, commodities and services, which may have a direct or indirect impact on the price of the metal being used as Underlying of the Warrants.

Risks associated with metals and commodities as Underlying may therefore result in the income from the Warrants being limited, or in significant losses or, in the extreme case, even in a total loss of the Invested Capital.

VIII. INFORMATION ABOUT THE WARRANTS TO BE OFFERED

1. Information about the Warrants

For the purposes of this section “Information about the Warrants to be offered”, the term “Underlying” also includes the respective underlying assets and the assets included (in each of them).

a) General information

If provided for in the applicable Final Terms, the Warrants are issued in the form of bearer bonds (Inhaberschuldverschreibungen) as defined in Sec. 793 of the German Civil Code (Bürgerliches Gesetzbuch – BGB) and constitute direct and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer in respect of which the Issuer has not provided collateral.

The Warrants may be drawn up in the form of a note (Urkundenform) or, in accordance with the German Electronic Securities Act (Gesetz über elektronische Wertpapiere, "eWpG"), in the form of electronic securities included in a central register (the "Central Register Securities").

In the case the Warrants are drawn up in the form of a note, the Warrants are evidenced by a permanent global bearer note. No Warrant Holder has the right to an individual note.

In case of Warrants issued as electronic securities in accordance with the eWpG, the Central Register Securities shall be issued by registering them electronically in the central register maintained by the registrar and after depositing the relevant terms and conditions for the respective Warrant as a permanent electronic instrument with the registrar. Central Register Securities registered via collective safe custody entry are legally deemed to be collective securities holdings. No Warrant Holder has the right to an individual registration in the central register.

The Warrants shall be transferred as a co-ownership interest in the collective securities holding in accordance with the applicable regulations and statutory provisions of the respective Clearing System.

The Issuer reserves the right to change the form of the Warrants over the course of their term (from a global note to an electronic security and vice versa).

If provided for in the applicable Final Terms, the Warrants can also be issued in dematerialised bearer form and cleared through Euroclear France S. A., issued in registered form and cleared through Nederlands Centraal Instituut voor Giraal Effectenverkeer B.V., issued in dematerialised form and cleared through Monte Titoli S.p.A., issued in dematerialised registered form and cleared through Sociedad de Gestión de los Sistemas de Registro, Compensación y Liquidación de Valores, S.A., issued in dematerialised registered form and cleared through Euroclear Sweden AB or issued in uncertificated form and cleared through SIX SIS AG. Warrants can also be issued in uncertificated form registered with a custodian under article 4 Swiss Federal Intermediated Securities Act (Bucheffektengesetz) (the "FISA") not being a central securities depository.

This Base Prospectus has been submitted to BaFin in its capacity as competent authority in the Federal Republic of Germany according to Article 31(1) sentence 1 of the Prospectus Regulation in conjunction with Sec. 17 of the German Securities Prospectus Act (Wertpapierprospektgesetz – "WpPG") (as amended) for approval. Following its approval, this Base Prospectus may also be notified to the competent authority in Austria, Belgium, Bulgaria, Croatia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Estonia, Finland, France, Greece, Hungary, Ireland, Italy, Latvia, Lithuania, Luxembourg, Malta, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Slovakia, Slovenia, Spain, Sweden and The Netherlands. The Base Prospectus may also be (i) registered in Switzerland with the reviewing body (Prüfstelle) SIX Exchange Regulation Ltd or another reviewing body approved by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority FINMA as a foreign prospectus that is also deemed to be approved in Switzerland pursuant to Article 54 para. 2 of the Swiss Federal Act on Financial Services ("Financial Services Act"; "FinSA") for inclusion on the list of approved prospectus pursuant to Article 64 para. 5 FinSA, (ii) deposited with this reviewing body and (iii) published pursuant to Article 64 FinSA.

The Warrants to be issued under this Base Prospectus are particularly risky investment instruments which combine features of futures transactions with those of leveraged products.

b) Ranking

As direct, unsecured and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer, the Warrants rank pari passu in right of payment with each other and with any other present and future unsecured and non-subordinated liabilities of the Issuer – including in the event of insolvency of the Issuer – to the exclusion of liabilities ranking senior by operation of mandatory law. There is a general risk that the Issuer may not be able to meet its liabilities under the Warrants or any part thereof.

Subject to the Guarantee provided by BNP Paribas S.A. as Guarantor, insolvency of the Issuer may result in a total loss of the Capital Invested in a Warrant of the Issuer.

c) Rating

The Warrants described in this Base Prospectus will not be rated.

d) Reference Price

The Reference Price of each Warrant is the price on the Valuation Date at which the Warrant is exercised.

e) General information about the Redemption Amount potentially to be paid under the Warrants

With respect to the Warrants offered under this Base Prospectus, the Warrant Holder is entitled (pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and in particular subject to extraordinary or, if provided for, ordinary termination of the Warrants) to be paid the Redemption Amount in the Settlement Currency depending on how the Underlying to which they are linked develops. The Redemption Amount may also be lower than the purchase price paid for the Warrant.

The effect known as “leverage effect” is one of the essential characteristics of a Warrant: If the value of the Underlying (or the value of a component included in the Underlying, if applicable) changes, this may cause the value of the Warrant to change proportionally more than the change in value of the Underlying. The leverage effect of the Warrant can work both ways – i.e. not only to the investor's advantage in the case of a favourable development but also to the investor's disadvantage in the case of an unfavourable development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to. Therefore, it should be considered when purchasing a particular Warrant that the greater its leverage effect, the greater the risk of loss associated with it.

f) Information specific to each product about the Redemption Amount potentially to be paid under the Warrants

(i) Product 1: UNLIMITED TURBO Long/Short Warrants

(a) UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants

UNLIMITED TURBO Long Warrants have an unlimited term, subject to the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event, a termination by the Issuer or an exercise by the Warrant Holder.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to and of the Relevant Strike. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Subject to the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event, the Redemption Amount is equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Relevant Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

It should be noted in this context that the Relevant Strike constituting the decisive factor in the calculation of the Redemption Amount is adjusted at the intervals specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and taking into account the Reference Rate and the Financing Spread and, in the event that a futures contract is used as Underlying, taking into account the Roll-Over Adjustment Rate, in the event that a Share is used as Underlying taking into account the relevant payments of Dividend on the Share, and also in the event that a price index is used as Underlying taking into account any payments of Dividend on the shares included in the index or any Dividend Cost Rate for such payments of Dividend.

If on any day during the Observation Period on which there is no Market Disruption (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Relevant Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(b) UNLIMITED TURBO Short Warrants

UNLIMITED TURBO Short Warrants have an unlimited term, subject to the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event, a termination by the Issuer or an exercise by the Warrant Holder.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to and of the Relevant Strike. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Subject to the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event, the Redemption Amount is equal to the difference between the Relevant Strike and the Reference Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

It should be noted in this context that the Relevant Strike constituting the decisive factor in the calculation of the Redemption Amount is adjusted at the intervals specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and taking into account the Reference Rate and the Financing Spread and, in the event that a futures contract is used as Underlying, taking into account the Roll-Over Adjustment Rate, in the event that a Share is used as Underlying taking into account the relevant payments of Dividend on the Share, and also in the event that a price index is used as Underlying, if applicable taking into account any Cost Rate.

If on any day during the Observation Period on which there is no Market Disruption (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or exceeds the Relevant Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(ii) Product 2: MINI Future Long/Short Warrants

(a) MINI Future Long Warrants

MINI Future Long Warrants have an unlimited term, subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event, a termination by the Issuer or an exercise by the Warrant Holder.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to and of the Relevant Strike. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Redemption Amount

Subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event, the Redemption Amount is equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Relevant Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

It should be noted in this context that the Relevant Strike constituting the decisive factor in the calculation of the Redemption Amount is adjusted at the intervals specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and taking into account the Reference Rate and the Financing Spread and, in the event that a futures contract is used as Underlying, taking into account the Roll-Over Adjustment Rate, in the event that a Share is used as Underlying taking into account the relevant payments of Dividend on the Share, and also in the event that a price index is used as Underlying taking account any payments of Dividend on the shares included in the index or any Dividend Cost Rate for such payments of Dividend.

Redemption Amount in case of a Stop-Loss Event

If on any day during the Observation Period on which there is no Market Disruption (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Stop-Loss Barrier (a specified price threshold), thereby triggering a Stop-Loss Event, the Warrants shall be deemed automatically exercised and the day on which the Stop-Loss Event occurred, at the latest, however, the day on which the Stop-Loss Reference Level was determined, shall at the same time be deemed the Valuation Date. In this case (irrespective of whether an Exercise Notice has been given and of whether the Warrants tendered for exercise have been delivered), the Redemption Amount shall be equal to the amount calculated as the difference between the Stop-Loss Reference Level and the Relevant Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

Consequently, if a Stop-Loss Event occurs, the payment of the Redemption Amount depends on whether the Stop-Loss Reference Level then determined by the Calculation Agent is higher than the Relevant Strike. If the Stop-Loss Reference Level is equal to or lower than the Relevant Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(b) MINI Future Short Warrants

MINI Future Short Warrants have an unlimited term, subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event, a termination by the Issuer or an exercise by the Warrant Holder.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to and of the Relevant Strike. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Redemption Amount

Subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event, the Redemption Amount is equal to the difference between the Relevant Strike and the Reference Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

It should be noted in this context that the Relevant Strike constituting the decisive factor in the calculation of the Redemption Amount is adjusted at the intervals specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and taking into account the Reference Rate and the Financing Spread and, in the event that a futures contract is used as Underlying, taking into account the Roll-Over Adjustment Rate, in the event that a Share is used as Underlying taking into account the relevant payments of Dividend on the Share, and also in the event that a price index is used as Underlying, if applicable taking into account any Cost Rate, if specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Redemption Amount in case of a Stop-Loss Event

If on any day during the Observation Period on which there is no Market Disruption (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or exceeds the Stop-Loss Barrier (a specified price threshold), thereby triggering a Stop-Loss Event, the Warrants shall be deemed automatically exercised and the day on which the Stop-Loss Event occurred, at the latest, however, the day on which the Stop-Loss Reference Level was determined, shall at the same time be deemed the Valuation Date. In this case (irrespective of whether an Exercise Notice has been given and of whether the Warrants tendered for exercise have been delivered), the Redemption Amount shall be equal to the amount calculated as the difference between the Relevant Strike and the Stop-Loss Reference Level, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.

Consequently, if a Stop-Loss Event occurs, the payment of the Redemption Amount depends on whether the Stop-Loss Reference Level then determined by the Calculation Agent is lower than the Relevant Strike. If the Stop-Loss Reference Level is equal to or higher than the Relevant Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and

NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(iii) Product 3: Call/Put Warrants

(a) Call Warrants

Call Warrants have a fixed term. If the Warrants have an European exercise style, the Warrant Rights will automatically be deemed exercised on the Valuation Date and cannot be exercised by the Warrant Holder on any other day during the term. If the Warrants have an American exercise style, Warrant Rights can be exercised by the Warrant Holders during the Exercise Period. The Warrant Rights which have not been exercised by the last day of the Exercise Period will automatically be deemed exercised on the Valuation Date.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount, depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to, equal to the amount by which the Reference Price exceeds the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

If the amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms if a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified or, if such a Minimum Amount is not specified in the Final Terms, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0) and NO payment will be made.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(b) Put Warrants

Put Warrants have a fixed term. If the Warrants have an European exercise style, the Warrant Rights will automatically be deemed exercised on the Valuation Date and cannot be exercised by the Warrant Holder on any other day during the term. If the Warrants have an American exercise style, Warrant Rights can be exercised by the Warrant Holders during the Exercise Period. The Warrant Rights which have not been exercised by the last day of the Exercise Period will automatically be deemed exercised on the Valuation Date.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount, depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to, equal to the amount by which the Reference Price falls below the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

If the amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms if a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified or, if such a Minimum Amount is not specified in the Final Terms, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0) and NO payment will be made.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(iv) Product 4: Discount Call/Put Warrants

(a) Discount Call Warrants

Discount Call Warrants have a fixed term.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

The Redemption Amount payable shall be determined as follows:

- a) If the Reference Price is higher than the Maximum Price, the Issuer shall, after the Valuation Date, pay a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Maximum Price and the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal. The Maximum Price is a predetermined value up to which a Warrant Holder participates in upward movements of the price of the Underlying.
- b) If the Reference Price is lower than or equal to the Maximum Price but higher than the Strike, the Issuer shall, after the Valuation Date, pay a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.
- c) If the Reference Price is lower than or equal to the Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(b) Discount Put Warrants

Discount Put Warrants have a fixed term.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

The Redemption Amount payable shall be determined as follows:

- a) If the Reference Price is lower than the Minimum Price, the Issuer shall, after the Valuation Date, pay a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Strike and the Minimum Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal. The Minimum Price is a predetermined value down to which a Warrant Holder participates in downward movements of the price of the Underlying.
- b) If the Reference Price is higher than or equal to the Minimum Price but lower than the Strike, the Issuer shall, after the Valuation Date, pay a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Strike and the Reference Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal.
- c) If the Reference Price is higher than or equal to the Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(v) Product 5: Constant Leverage Long/Short Warrants (with unlimited term)

(a) Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term)

The Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) do not have a fixed Settlement Date and, consequently, do not have a fixed term. Therefore, the Warrant Right of the Warrant Holders as represented by the Warrants must either be terminated by the Issuer by ordinary termination according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants with effect from an Ordinary Termination Date or be exercised by the Warrant Holder according to the exercise procedure specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants on a specified Exercise Date in order to assert the Warrant Right.

After ordinary termination of the Warrants by the Issuer with effect from an Ordinary Termination Date, or after exercise by the Warrant Holder on an Exercise Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder the Redemption Amount in the Settlement Currency and depending on the development of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to after the relevant Valuation Date. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) reflect the leveraged purchase (known as Long Position) of the Underlying they are linked to by means of the Relevant Cash Value Long. The Relevant Cash Value Long is based on a leverage component which represents the Performance of the Underlying multiplied by the constant Leverage Factor.

Redemption Amount

The Redemption Amount is equal to the Relevant Cash Value Long, i.e. subject to conversion into the Settlement Currency according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, equal to the Cash Value Long, which is determined from the Determination Date onwards, subject to any Cash Value Long Calculation Disruption, on each Cash Value Calculation Date (the “Cash Value Long_(t)”) as at the relevant Exercise Date or the Ordinary Termination Date and accordingly, subject to any Reset Event of the Cash Value Long (as described below), to the Cash Value Long on the immediately preceding Cash Value Calculation Date (the “Cash Value Long_(t-1)”) multiplied by the sum of (i) 1 (in words: one) and (ii) the product of (A) the Leverage Factor and (B) the Performance of the Underlying, the overall result being increased by the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component on the Cash Value Calculation Date_(t). In determining the Performance of the Underlying, amounts stated in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, if any, will be taken into account with respect to an Underlying, specifically in the case of price indices, shares and securities representing shares (Depository Receipts) as Underlying any payments of dividend or, in the case of performance indices, if applicable other costs incurred in connection with the taxation of dividends and, in the case of futures contracts as Underlying, the Roll-Over Costs incurred upon a Roll-over.

The value of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) will in each case be adjusted for the Financing Component. The purpose of the Financing Component is to cover the expenses of the Issuer and/or of the Calculation Agent. As will be explained below, the elements of the Financing Component are the Leverage Factor, the Reference Rate, the Interest Margin, the Hedging Cost and the Administration Fee.

The Leverage Factor is the constant Leverage Factor allocated to the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term).

The Reference Rate taking into account the Interest Margin is equal to the financing costs of the Issuer or of the Calculation Agent for the position in the Underlying amplified by the Leverage Factor. For this purpose, the capital employed by the investor will be taken into account in the position to be financed.

The purpose of the Interest Margin can be, inter alia, to compensate differences between the interest rates achievable by the Issuer or the Calculation Agent and market interest rates.

The Hedging Costs include the costs of the Issuer or of the Calculation Agent for maintaining the position in the Underlying amplified by the Leverage Factor, the daily transaction costs for maintaining this position and the costs incurring for the purchase of hedging instruments.

The Administration Fee covers the costs of the Issuer and/or of the Calculation Agent for structuring, market making and settlement of the Warrants and also includes the margin of the Calculation Agent.

Given that the Hedging Cost and the Administration Fee and, if applicable, the Interest Margin relate to the position in the Underlying leveraged depending on the Leverage Factor, these costs are the higher the greater the Leverage Factor is.

Overall the Financing Component is, as a rule, mathematically negative. Therefore, the value of the Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) is, as a rule, reduced by the Financing Component.

Explanatory description of the leverage effect

The Leverage Factor defines the lever by which the Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) reflects the daily changes in the Underlying.

The value of a Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) with a Leverage Factor of 4 – before consideration of the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component – will increase by 20% if the price of the Underlying increases by 5%. Conversely, the value of this Constant Leverage Long Warrant (with unlimited term) – before consideration of the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component – will decrease by 20% if the price of the Underlying decreases by 5%.

It should be noted, however, that this explanatory description of the leverage is a simplified description. In reality, the daily change in the Underlying is adjusted according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants for dividends, other costs incurred in connection with dividends or otherwise or Roll-Over Costs, depending on the type of Underlying. This has not been taken into account in the explanatory description of the leverage effect provided above.

However, due to the inclusion of the Financing Component, the actual performance will be lower.

Reset Event of the Cash Value Long

Another special feature of Constant Leverage Long Warrants (with unlimited term) arises if the Observation Price of the Underlying decreases very sharply between the determination of the relevant Reference Price on two consecutive Cash Value Calculation Dates or during such other period specified for this purpose in the Final Terms. If the Reset Threshold specified in the Final Terms for this purpose is reached or fallen short of in such a case, this will result in a Reset Event of the Cash Value Long_(t) on the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t).

For this purpose, a Reset Price of the Underlying is determined which is then used as the new or adjusted price of the Underlying for the purpose of determining the adjusted Cash Value Long_(t). This price forms the basis for the further calculation of the Performance of the Underlying with respect to the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t) or such other period specified in the Final Terms for this purpose. If the price of the Underlying decreases sharply and steadily, this may result in two or more Reset Events taking place on a Cash Value Calculation Date. However, despite this reset mechanism, the possibility of Warrant Holders suffering a total loss of their Invested Capital cannot be completely excluded.

Total loss

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0) and the Final Terms do not provide for a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss of its Invested Capital.

(b) Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term)

The Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) do not have a fixed Settlement Date and, consequently, do not have a fixed term. Therefore, the Warrant Right of the Warrant Holders as represented by the Warrants must either be terminated by the Issuer by ordinary termination according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants with effect from an Ordinary Termination Date or be exercised by the Warrant Holder according to the exercise procedure specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants on a specified Exercise Date in order to assert the Warrant Right.

After ordinary termination of the Warrants by the Issuer with effect from an Ordinary Termination Date, or after exercise by the Warrant Holder on an Exercise Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder the Redemption Amount in the Settlement Currency and depending on the development of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to after the relevant Valuation Date. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) reflect the leveraged sale (known as Short Position) of the Underlying they are linked to by means of the Relevant Cash Value Short. The Relevant Cash Value Short is based on a leverage component which represents the Performance of the Underlying multiplied by the negative of the constant Leverage Factor.

Redemption Amount

The Redemption Amount is equal to the Relevant Cash Value Short, i.e. subject to conversion into the Settlement Currency according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, equal to the Cash Value Short, which is determined from the Determination Date onwards, subject to any Cash Value

Short Calculation Disruption, on each Cash Value Calculation Date (the “Cash Value Short_(t)”) as at the relevant Exercise Date or from the Ordinary Termination Date and accordingly, subject to any Reset Event of the Cash Value Short (as described below), to the Cash Value Short on the immediately preceding Cash Value Calculation Date (the “Cash Value Short_(t-1)”) multiplied by the difference of (i) 1 (in words: one) and (ii) the product of (A) the Leverage Factor and (B) the Performance of the Underlying, the overall result being increased by the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component on the Cash Value Calculation Date_(t). In determining the Performance of the Underlying, amounts stated in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, if any, will be taken into account with respect to an Underlying, specifically in the case of price indices, shares and securities representing shares (Depository Receipts) as Underlying any payments of dividend or, in the case of performance indices, if applicable other costs incurred in connection with dividends and, in the case of futures contracts as Underlying, the Roll-Over Costs incurred upon a Roll-over.

The value of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) will in each case be adjusted for the Financing Component. The purpose of the Financing Component is to cover the expenses of the Issuer and/or of the Calculation Agent. As will be explained below, the elements of the Financing Component are the Leverage Factor, the Reference Rate, the Interest Margin, the Hedging Cost and the Administration Fee.

The Leverage Factor is the constant Leverage Factor allocated to the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term).

The Reference Rate taking into account the Interest Margin is equal to the (usually positive) financing result of the Short position in the Underlying amplified by the Leverage Factor. For this purpose, the capital employed by the investor will be taken into account in the financing result.

The purpose of the Interest Margin can be, inter alia, to compensate differences between the interest rates achievable by the Issuer or the Calculation Agent and market interest rates.

The Hedging Costs include the costs of the Issuer or of the Calculation Agent for maintaining the position in the Underlying amplified by the Leverage Factor, the daily transaction costs for maintaining this position and the costs incurring for the purchase of hedging instruments.

The Administration Fee covers the costs of the Issuer and/or of the Calculation Agent for structuring, market making and settlement of the Warrants and also includes the margin of the Calculation Agent.

Given that the Hedging Cost and the Administration Fee and, if applicable, the Interest Margin relate to the position in the Underlying leveraged depending on the Leverage Factor, these costs are the higher the greater the Leverage Factor is.

Overall the Financing Component is, as a rule, mathematically negative. Therefore, the value of the Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) is, as a rule, reduced by the Financing Component.

Explanatory description of the leverage effect

The Leverage Factor defines the lever by which the Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) reflects the daily changes in the Underlying.

The value of a Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) with a Leverage Factor of 4 – before consideration of the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component – will increase by 20% if the price of the Underlying decreases by 5%. Conversely, the value of this Constant Leverage Short Warrant (with unlimited term) – before consideration of the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component – will decrease by 20% if the price of the Underlying increases by 5%.

It should be noted, however, that this explanatory description of the leverage is a simplified description. In reality, the daily change in the Underlying is adjusted according to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants for dividends, other costs incurred in connection with dividends or otherwise or Roll-Over Costs, depending on the type of Underlying. This has not been taken into account in the explanatory description of the leverage effect provided above.

However, due to the inclusion of the Financing Component, the actual performance will be lower.

Reset Event of the Cash Value Short

Another special feature of Constant Leverage Short Warrants (with unlimited term) arises if the Observation Price of the Underlying increases very sharply between the determination of the relevant Reference Price on two consecutive Cash Value Calculation Dates or during such other period specified for this purpose in the Final Terms. If the Reset Threshold specified in the Final Terms for this purpose is reached or exceeded in such a case, this will result in a Reset Event of the Cash Value Short_(t) on the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t).

For this purpose, a Reset Price of the Underlying is determined which is then used as the new or adjusted price of the Underlying for the purpose of determining the adjusted Cash Value Short_(t). This price forms the basis for the further calculation of the Performance of the Underlying with respect to the relevant Cash Value Calculation Date_(t) or such other period specified in the Final Terms for this purpose. If the price of the Underlying increases sharply and steadily, this may result in two or more Reset Events taking place on a Cash Value Calculation Date. However, despite this reset mechanism, the possibility of Warrant Holders suffering a total loss of their Invested Capital cannot be completely excluded.

Total loss

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0) and the Final Terms do not provide for a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss of its Invested Capital.

(vi) Product 6: TURBO Long/Short Warrants

(a) TURBO Long Warrants

TURBO Long Warrants have a fixed term.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to, equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal, provided that the Observation Price does not at any time during the Observation Period reaches or falls below the Knock-Out Barrier specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. The Knock-Out Barrier is the barrier which is decisive for the occurrence of the Knock-Out Event. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Otherwise or if the difference thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made.

If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(b) TURBO Short Warrants

TURBO Short Warrants have a fixed term.

After the Valuation Date, the Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount depending on the development of the price of the Underlying the Warrant is linked to, equal to the difference between the Strike and the Reference Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal, provided that the Observation Price does not at any time during the Observation Period reaches or exceeds the Knock-Out Barrier specified in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants. The Knock-Out Barrier is the barrier which is decisive for the occurrence of the Knock-Out Event. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Otherwise or if the difference thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

(vii) Product 7: Inline Warrants

Inline Warrants have a fixed term.

The Issuer shall have an obligation under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to pay the Warrant Holder a Redemption Amount equal to a predetermined amount in the Settlement Currency provided that no Knock-Out Event has occurred. A Knock-Out Event occurs if the Observation Price either exceeds or, where provided for in the Final Terms, reaches or exceeds the Upper Barrier or falls below or, where provided for in the Final Terms, reaches or falls below the Lower Barrier. The conversion from another currency into the Settlement Currency will be made according to the provisions of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Upon the occurrence of a Knock-Out Event, the Warrants will expire and the Redemption Amount will be zero (0), unless a Minimum Amount is specified in the Final Terms, and NO payment will be made. If a Minimum Amount per Warrant is specified, the Redemption Amount will be equal to the amount specified in the Final Terms.

If the Redemption Amount is zero (0), the Warrant Holder will suffer a total loss.

If the Redemption Amount is equal to a Minimum Amount, the Warrant Holder will suffer a loss that may come close to the total purchase price paid for a Warrant including the transaction costs spent.

g) Further information relating to the Warrants

Potential restrictions on the free transferability of the Warrants

The Warrants are freely transferable and not subject to any restrictions in this regard.

Warrant Holders' rights and obligations

The rights and obligations of Warrant Holders are governed only by the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants.

Yield

Since the Warrants do not have a fixed interest rate, it is not possible to predict the yield.

2. Dependence of tax treatment of income (if any) from the Warrants

The tax laws of the investor's Member State and of the Federal Republic of Germany as the Issuer's Member State of incorporation may have an impact on the income received from the Warrants.

3. Information about the Underlying

The Warrants may be linked to the performance of indices, shares (including other equity securities (e.g. profit participation certificates)), currency exchange rates, metals, commodities, futures contracts, and/or depositary receipts.

The Underlying to which the Warrants are linked is shown in the table in the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (§ 1). However, the provisions of § 3 ("Adjustments of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants"), which allow the Underlying to be substituted under certain conditions, remain reserved.

If an Index is used as Underlying or basket component, the index will in no circumstances be composed by the Issuer or a legal entity forming part of the BNP Paribas Group.

Information about the Underlying or the components of the relevant Underlying, or information about where further information about them can be found is provided in the Final Terms.

If an index used as Underlying is provided by a legal entity or a natural person acting in association with, or on behalf of, the Issuer, all rules of the index and all information about its performance will be available free of charge for download from the website of the Issuer or the provider of the index; in addition, the applicable Final Terms may include a description of the index. The rules of such indices (including the methodology of the index for the selection and the re-balancing of the Index Components and the description of Market Disruptions and adjustment rules) are based on predetermined and objective criteria.

In the event that a "Benchmark" as defined in the Regulation of the European Parliament and of the Council of 8 June 2016 on indices used as benchmarks in financial instruments and financial contracts or to measure the performance of investment funds (the "EU Benchmark Regulation") is used, the applicable Final Terms clear and prominent information stating whether or not the Benchmark is provided by an administrator included in the register of administrators and benchmarks established and maintained by the European Securities and Markets Authority ("ESMA") pursuant to Article 36 of the EU Benchmark Regulation. To the extent applicable to the relevant Underlying, this information will be included in the applicable Final Terms in the table entitled "Further information" under "Statement pursuant to Article 29(2) of the EU Benchmark Regulation". Transitional provisions in the EU Benchmark Regulation may have the result that the administrator of a particular Benchmark does not appear in the register at the date of the applicable Final Terms. The register or the registration status of any Benchmark kept as a public record by ESMA and the Issuer does not intend to update the applicable Final Terms to reflect the registration or any change in the registration status of the relevant administrator.

IX. TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE OFFER

1. Conditions, offer statistics, expected timetable and action required for the subscription process

The Warrants will be offered by BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. of Paris, France, during the period specified in the Final Terms to interested investors who may purchase the Warrants via banks and public savings banks (Sparkassen) or through other distribution channels.

The terms and conditions of the offer, the initial issue price, the issuance currency, the securities identification numbers (ISIN etc.), the issue size of the Warrants, the issue date and, if necessary, a description of the manner in which the results of the offer are made public, information about dealers, if applicable the potential subscription process (including information about any minimum and/or maximum amount of subscription) and the process for notification of the amount allotted and indication whether dealing in the Warrants may begin before notification is received in respect of the Warrant or the particular series of Warrants are set out in the applicable Final Terms.

After the initial issue price, the selling price will be determined by BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. on an ongoing basis.

The final Reference Price of each Warrant is the price and/or level of the Underlying determined on the Valuation Date. The Warrants shall be deemed exercised on the Valuation Date. It should be noted that, if provided for in the Final Terms, the Warrants can be exercised by the Warrant Holders, subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event (if relevant) and/or a Knock-Out Event (if relevant) and subject to a termination of the Warrants by the Issuer.

The Issuer reserves the right to increase the issue size of the Warrants.

The applicable laws of the countries where the Warrants are to be offered or sold or the offer documents are to be distributed must be taken into account in connection with the offering and selling of the Warrants or distribution of offer documents for the Warrants.

2. Issue price; pricing of the Warrants and factors influencing the pricing of the Warrants

The issue price or the bid and ask prices for the Warrants are determined by BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. on the basis of internal pricing models of BNP Paribas Group and taking into account various relevant factors, including the price of the Underlying, futures contracts and/or options contracts linked to the Underlying, the current interest rate, dividends to be expected and other criteria specific to each product.

In addition, the issue price may include an offering premium to cover the commissions for the Issuer or other incidental costs incurring in connection with the issue and hedging of the relevant Warrants.

The issue price is specified in the applicable Final Terms and any further prices for the Warrants will be determined by BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. at its reasonable discretion by reference to the market conditions. The Final Terms also specify the amount of the costs and taxes included in the issue price of the Warrants to the extent known to the Issuer, which shall be charged to investors.

These prices may include a margin which, if applicable, covers the costs inter alia of structuring the product, risk hedging of the Issuer or Offeror and of distribution. In particular, sales commissions are usually paid as well. These costs reduce the income from the Warrants accordingly.

Therefore, the prices quoted by BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. may differ from the actuarial value of the Warrants or the price to be expected from an economic standpoint that would have developed at the relevant time in a liquid market in which various market participants acting independently of one another quote prices. Furthermore, BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. may change the method based on which it determines the quoted prices at its reasonable discretion at any time, e.g. by changing its pricing models or using other pricing models.

Apart from the issue prices referred to above and/or the selling prices, respectively, the Issuer or Offeror will not charge any other costs to the purchaser upon its purchase of the Warrants. However, banks or public savings banks (Sparkassen), the house bank or other distribution channels of the securities concerned or the relevant securities exchange may charge other costs and taxes about which neither the Issuer nor the Offeror can say anything.

Any costs and expenses a Warrant Holder may incur with respect to an indirect purchase of the Warrants (e.g. via direct banks or a securities exchange) are outside the control of the Issuer. The purchaser of the Warrants shall enquire with the parties concerned for the amount of such costs and expenses.

The Issuer does not assume any legal obligation with regard to the inclusion of the Warrants in trading or the maintenance of a inclusion to trading that may have become effective throughout the term of the Warrants. Warrants may be suspended from trading and/or delisted from the stock exchange(s) and/or listing venue(s) at any time, in each case, in accordance with the applicable rules and regulations of the relevant stock exchange(s) and/or listing venue(s).

The applicable Final Terms of the Warrants will specify whether and from when (at the earliest) the relevant Warrants are or are to be admitted to trading or listed. If the Warrants are (or are to be) admitted to trading or listed, the relevant stock exchange(s) and/or multilateral trading facilities will be specified. If applicable, the Final Terms will also specify all the regulated or equivalent markets on which, to the knowledge of the Issuer warrants of the same class of securities as those to be offered or admitted to trading are already admitted to trading.

Under normal market conditions, BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. will regularly quote bid and ask prices for the Warrants of an issue. However, it does not have any legal obligation regarding the amount, establishment or permanent availability of such prices. In particular, in the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, trading is suspended in the event that a Reset Event pursuant to the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants occurs, with the suspension usually continuing until the Reset Price is determined.

XI. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

1. Resolutions, authorisations and approvals by virtue of which the Warrants are created

The decision to issue the Warrants is in each case taken by the management of the Issuer.

The issuance of the Guarantee by BNPP does not require authorisation or approval.

2. Publication of information

The Issuer does not intend to publish post-issuance information other than what it is required to publish under the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, or information that goes beyond clarification of the terms in the relevant Final Terms of this Prospectus. Such mandatory disclosures will be made pursuant to § 9 (Notices) of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions). An exception from this is the public notice of the termination of the control and profit transfer agreement between the Issuer and BNP Paribas S.A., which will be published in a official national stock exchange gazette and via the Clearing System.

In the case of MINI Future Warrants and UNLIMITED TURBO Warrants, the respective current Relevant Strike of the Warrant pursuant to § 1 of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants is also available, subject to technical or other disruptions, under <https://warrants.bnpparibas.com/knockouts> and additionally under <https://www.bnpparibasmarkets.nl/> (for investors in The Netherlands) and/or <https://www.bnpparibasmarkets.be/> (for investors in Belgium) and/or <https://www.produitsdebourse.bnpparibas.fr/> (for investors in France) (by entering the securities identification number of the Warrant).

3. Interest and conflicts of interest of natural persons and legal entities involved in the issue/offer

The Offeror BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. may enter into transactions relating to the Warrants from time to time, either for its own account or for the account of a customer. BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C.'s interest in such transactions may conflict with the interest it has in its capacity as Offeror.

If, as indicated in the Final Terms, BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. is a counterparty to hedge transactions relating to obligations of the Issuer under the Warrants (hereinafter referred to as a “Counterparty”), this may give rise to conflicts of interest between BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. and the investors regarding (i) its duties as Calculation Agent in determining the prices of the Warrants and other determinations associated therewith and (ii) its functions as Offeror and Counterparty.

If, as indicated in the Final Terms, BNP Paribas S.A., if applicable acting through its London branch or any other branch (as indicated in the applicable Final Terms), is a counterparty to hedge transactions relating to obligations of the Issuer under the Warrants, this may give rise to conflicts of interest between BNP Paribas S.A. (if applicable, acting through its London branch or any other branch) and the investors regarding (i) its duties as Calculation Agent in determining the prices of the Warrants and other determinations associated therewith and (ii) its functions as Counterparty.

Further conflicts of interest may also result from the fact that BNP Paribas S.A. acts as Paying Agent through its German branch.

In addition, BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C. or BNP Paribas S.A., respectively (if applicable, acting through its London branch or any other branch) may exercise a capacity other than that of Offeror (in the case of BNP Paribas Financial Markets S.N.C.), Paying Agent (if applicable, acting through its German branch), Calculation Agent and Counterparty in relation to the Warrants, e.g. as Paying Agent and Administration Agent and/or, if applicable, Reference Source.

4. Reasons for the offer and use of proceeds

The primary aim of the offer is to further the objective of making profit. Unless otherwise stipulated in the Final Terms, the Issuer will use the net proceeds from the issue exclusively to hedge the liabilities it has under the Warrants towards Warrant Holders.

The estimated total costs of the issue/the offer of the Warrants and the estimated net proceeds, as far as they can be quantified, will be published in the Final Terms.

XII. TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE WARRANTS

[In the case of an increase or a continuation of the public offer of Warrants issued under the Base Prospectus dated 24 October 2022 or the Base Prospectus dated 24 October 2023 or the Base Prospectus dated 24 October 2024 of BNP Paribas Emissions- und Handelsgesellschaft mbH, the relevant Terms and Conditions of the Warrants contained in the 2022 Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or in the 2023 Terms and Conditions of the Warrants or in the 2024 Terms and Conditions of the Warrants which are incorporated by reference into this Base Prospectus are applicable (a list setting out where the information incorporated by reference is included is provided in section “III. [If such an exchange rate is no longer published as aforesaid but on another screen page chosen by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) (the "Replacement Page"), the currency exchange rate published on the Replacement Page shall be relevant and applicable for the conversion of the Reference Currency into the Settlement Currency. § 2
Exercise of Warrant Rights

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

- (1) (a) The Warrants will be deemed automatically exercised and become worthless as soon as a Knock-Out Event occurs. In this case, no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

- (1) (a) The Warrants will be deemed automatically exercised as soon as a Knock-Out Event occurs. In this case, the Redemption Amount will only be equal to the Minimum Amount according to § 1 para. [(3)][(4)].]

- (b) Warrant Rights may only be exercised for at least [●] Warrant[s] or an integral multiple thereof (the “Minimum Number”). At the latest by [10:00] [●] hrs [Frankfurt am Main local time][●] two Bank Business Days before the Exercise Date, the Warrant Holder shall:

- (i) submit a[n] [written and] unconditional declaration [in text form] with all necessary information according to para. (1)(c) below (the “Exercise Notice”) to the Paying Agent (in accordance with § 8 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions)), such notice to be sent [by fax to number [+49 (0) 69 15205277] [●]] [and/or] [by email to [frankfurt.gct.operations@bnpparibas.com][●]] [●]; and
- (ii) deliver the Warrants to the Issuer via the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] by transferring the Warrants to the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] with the [Clearing System] [Intermediary] [●] (account no. [7259] [●]).

Valid exercise of the Warrant Right by the Warrant Holder is subject to the condition subsequent of a Knock-Out Event occurring on or before the determination of the Reference Price on the Exercise Date: In other words, if a Knock-Out Event occurs after exercise according to this § 2 para. (1)(b), this will result in the exercise subsequently becoming invalid and § 2 para. (1)(a) applying instead.

- (c) The Exercise Notice must include:
- (i) the name and address of the exercising Warrant Holder,
- (ii) the type (WKN or ISIN) and number of the Warrants for which the Warrant Right is being exercised, and
- (iii) the details of a bank account in the Settlement Currency to which the Redemption Amount is to be transferred.

The Exercise Notice is binding and irrevocable. It will take effect when the Exercise Notice has been received and the Warrants have been received by the Paying Agent in due time. If the Warrants to which the Exercise Notice relates are not delivered, or not delivered in time, to the Paying Agent in accordance with para. (1)(b), the Exercise Notice shall be null and void. The Bank Business Day on which the conditions for exercise referred to above are first met with respect to the Warrant Rights exercised by [10:00] [●] hrs [Frankfurt am Main local time] [●] inclusive shall be deemed the Valuation Date for the purposes of § 1.

If, notwithstanding para. (1)(b), the number of Warrant Rights exercised is not equal to or a multiple of the Minimum Number, the exercise shall be effective only for the next smaller number of Warrants that is divisible by the Minimum Number into integer numbers without remainder. The same shall apply mutatis mutandis if the number of Warrants referred to in the Exercise Notice is different from the number of Warrants transferred to the Paying Agent. In both cases, the surplus Warrants shall be transferred back to the Warrant Holder at its risk and expense.

- (2) The Issuer shall have the right to terminate the Warrants in their entirety and not in part, to expire on [●], or at the earliest on [●] (the “Termination Date”), by giving notice of ordinary termination. Termination by the Issuer shall be published [●] [at the latest two Bank Business Days] before the Termination Date in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions).

The Valuation Date shall in this case be the Termination Date, provided that the point in time on the basis of which the Termination Date is determined shall be when the Reference Price concerned is determined (subject to a Knock-Out Event and extraordinary termination pursuant to § 3). The Redemption Amount payable to Warrant Holders in the event of ordinary termination shall then be determined according to the provisions of § 1 para. [(2)][and][(3)] (including the reference to para. [(3)][(4)][(6)][(7)]).

A notice of termination already given shall become ineffective if a Knock-Out Event occurs on or before the relevant Termination Date.]

2. Product 2 (MINI Future Long/Short Warrants)

[For Product 2 (MINI Future Long/Short Warrants), insert:

The Issuer reserves the right to replace securities issued by means of a global note pursuant to § 6 (3) eWpG by Central Register Securities of the same content.]

Warrant Right, Definitions

- (1) BNP Paribas Emissions- und Handelsgesellschaft mbH, Frankfurt am Main (the “Issuer”) grants each Warrant Holder (as defined in § 5 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions)) of a[n] [●] [MINI Future Long Warrant] [and/or] [a] [MINI Future Short Warrant] (each a “Warrant” and collectively the “Warrants”) linked to the underlying (the “Underlying”) specified in the table at the end of this § 1 the right (the “Warrant Right”) to claim payment from the Issuer, in accordance with these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants of the Redemption Amount, in [●] [the settlement currency allocated to the Warrant in the table at the end of § 1] (the “Settlement Currency”), as specified in para. (2) [and para. (4)] below, pursuant to § 1 of these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants and § 7 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions).

[The following provision applies in the case of a MINI Future Long Warrant:]

- (2) Subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event and to the provisions of para. (3), the Redemption Amount (the “Redemption Amount”) in the case of a MINI Future Long Warrant is equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Relevant Strike, determined in the Reference Currency, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal (the “Relevant Amount”):

$$\text{Relevant Amount} = (\text{Reference Price} - \text{Relevant Strike}) \times (\text{R})$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(6)][(8)].

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Warrants will expire and become worthless. In this case, no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be only [●] per Warrant (the “Minimum Amount”). If a Warrant Holder holds more than one Warrant, the aggregate of the Minimum Amounts thus calculated will be Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place.]

- (3) If on any day during the Observation Period (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or falls below the Stop-Loss Barrier, thereby triggering a Stop-Loss Event, the Warrants shall automatically be deemed exercised and the day on which the Stop-Loss Event occurred, at the latest, however, the day on which the Stop-Loss Reference Level was determined, shall at the same time be deemed the Valuation Date. In this case (irrespective of whether or not an Exercise Notice as defined in § 2 has been given), the Redemption Amount shall then be determined exclusively as follows:

$$\text{Redemption Amount} = (\text{Stop-Loss Reference Level} - \text{Relevant Strike}) \times (\text{R})$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(6)][(8)].

The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:

The Redemption Amount may be zero if the Stop-Loss Reference Level is lower than or equal to the Relevant Strike. The Redemption Amount can never be negative; a negative calculated value results in a Redemption Amount of zero. In this case, the Warrants will expire and become worthless, and no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:

The Redemption Amount may be only equal to the Minimum Amount if the Stop-Loss Reference Level is lower than or equal to the Relevant Strike. If a Warrant Holder holds more than one Warrant, the aggregate of the Minimum Amounts thus calculated will be Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place.]

The following provision applies in the case of a MINI Future Short Warrant:

- [(2)][(4)] Subject to the occurrence of a Stop-Loss Event and to the provisions of para. [(3)][(5)], the Redemption Amount (the “Redemption Amount”) in the case of a MINI Future Short Warrant is equal to the difference between the Relevant Strike and the Reference Price, determined in the Reference Currency, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal (the “Relevant Amount”):

$$\text{Relevant Amount} = (\text{Relevant Strike} - \text{Reference Price}) \times (R)$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(6)][(8)].]

The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Warrants will expire and become worthless. In this case, no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be only [●] per Warrant (the “Minimum Amount”). If a Warrant Holder holds more than one Warrant, the aggregate of the Minimum Amounts thus calculated will be Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place.]

- [(3)][(5)] If on any day during the Observation Period (including the day when the Reference Price is determined) the Observation Price reaches or exceeds the Stop-Loss Barrier, thereby triggering a Stop-Loss Event, the Warrants shall automatically be deemed exercised and the day on which the Stop-Loss Event occurred, at the latest, however, the day on which the Stop-Loss Reference Level was determined, shall at the same time be deemed the Valuation Date. In this case (irrespective of whether or not an Exercise Notice as defined in § 2 has been given), the Redemption Amount shall then be determined exclusively as follows:

$$\text{Redemption Amount} = (\text{Relevant Strike} - \text{Stop-Loss Reference Level}) \times (R)$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(6)][(8)].]

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

The Redemption Amount may be zero if the Stop-Loss Reference Level is higher than or equal to the Relevant Strike. The Redemption Amount can never be negative; a negative calculated value results in a Redemption Amount of zero. In this case, the Warrants will expire and become worthless, and no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

The Redemption Amount may be only equal to the Minimum Amount if the Stop-Loss Reference Level is higher than or equal to the Relevant Strike. If a Warrant Holder holds more than one Warrant, the aggregate of the Minimum Amounts thus calculated will be Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place.]]

[(4)][(6)] The Issuer will pay the Redemption Amount per Warrant to each Warrant Holder at the latest on the Settlement Date.

[(6)][(8)] The following currency conversion provisions apply if the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency.

[The following provision applies in the case of non-quanto conversion:]

[The Reference Currency will be converted into the Settlement Currency at the currency exchange rate set on [or in relation to] the Valuation Date by [Bloomberg] [•] for that day and published on [Reuters page] [Refinitiv page] [[Bloomberg page] [BFIX]] [•] at [•] hrs ([•] local time) (the “Conversion Time”). § 2
Exercise of Warrant Rights

- (1) The Warrants will be deemed automatically exercised as soon as a Stop-Loss Event occurs.
- (2) (a) Warrant Rights may only be exercised for at least [●] Warrant[s] or an integral multiple thereof (the “Minimum Number”). At the latest by [10:00] [●] hrs [Frankfurt am Main local time][●] two Bank Business Days before the Exercise Date, the Warrant Holder shall:
- (i) submit a[n] [written and] unconditional declaration [in text form] with all necessary information according to para. (2)(b) below (the “Exercise Notice”) to the Paying Agent (in accordance with § 8 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions)), such notice to be sent [by fax to number [+49 (0) 69 15205277] [●] [and/or] [by email to [frankfurt.gct.operations@bnpparibas.com]][●] [●]; and
 - (ii) deliver the Warrants to the Issuer via the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] by transferring the Warrants to the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] with the [Clearing System] [Intermediary] [●] (account no. [7259] [●]).

Valid exercise of the Warrant Right by the Warrant Holder is subject to the condition subsequent of a Stop-Loss Event occurring on or before the determination of the Reference Price on the Exercise Date: In other words, if a Stop-Loss Event occurs after exercise according to this § 2 para. (2), this will result in the exercise subsequently becoming invalid and § 2 para. (1) applying instead.

- (b) The Exercise Notice must include:
- (i) the name and address of the exercising Warrant Holder,
 - (ii) the type (WKN or ISIN) and number of the Warrants for which the Warrant Right is being exercised, and
 - (iii) the details of a bank account in the Settlement Currency to which the Redemption Amount is to be transferred.

The Exercise Notice is binding and irrevocable. It will take effect when the Exercise Notice has been received and the Warrants have been received by the Paying Agent in due time. If the Warrants to which the Exercise Notice relates are not delivered, or not delivered in time, to the Paying Agent in accordance with para. (2)(a), the Exercise Notice shall be null and void. The Bank Business Day on which the conditions for exercise referred to above are first met with respect to the Warrant Rights exercised by [10:00] [●] hrs [Frankfurt am Main local time] [●] inclusive shall be deemed the Valuation Date for the purposes of § 1.

If, notwithstanding para. (2)(a), the number of Warrant Rights exercised is not equal to or a multiple of the Minimum Number, the exercise shall be effective only for the next smaller number of Warrants that is divisible by the Minimum Number into integer numbers without remainder. The same shall apply mutatis mutandis if the number of Warrants referred to in the Exercise Notice is different from the number of Warrants transferred to the Paying Agent. In both cases, the surplus Warrants shall be transferred back to the Warrant Holder at its risk and expense.

- (3) The Issuer shall have the right to terminate the Warrants in their entirety and not in part, to expire on [●], or at the earliest on [●] (the “Termination Date”), by giving notice of ordinary termination. Termination by the Issuer shall be published [●] [at the latest two Bank Business Days] before the Termination Date in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions).

The Valuation Date shall in this case be the Termination Date, provided that the point in time on the basis of which the Termination Date is determined shall be when the Reference Price concerned is determined (subject to a Stop-Loss Event and extraordinary termination pursuant to § 3). The Redemption Amount payable to Warrant Holders in the event of ordinary termination shall then be determined according to the provisions of § 1 para. [(2)][and][(4)] (including the reference to para. [(3)][(5)][(7)]).

A notice of termination already given shall become ineffective if a Stop-Loss Event occurs on or before the relevant Termination Date.]

3. Product 3 (Call/Put Warrants)

[The following provision applies in the case of Product 3 (Call/Put Warrants):

[The following provision applies in the case of a Series:

The different issuance parameters of each Warrant are set out in the table at the end of § 1 for each issue of Warrants. Therefore, the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants set out below apply mutatis mutandis to each Warrant of a Series in accordance with that table.]

[The following provision applies in the case of a single WKN/ISIN:

The Warrants identified by its [ISIN] [and] [,] [WKN] [and] [•] are [represented by a global bearer note] [issued in [the form of]] [electronic securities in accordance with the German Electronic Securities Act (Gesetz über elektronische Wertpapiere, “eWpG”)] [dematerialised bearer form and cleared through Euroclear France S. [The Issuer reserves the right to replace Warrants issued by means of a global note pursuant to § 6 (3) eWpG by electronic securities of the same content and registered in a central register within the meaning of § 4 (2) eWpG (the “Central Register Securities”). The Issuer reserves the right to replace Central Register Securities pursuant to § 6 (2) eWpG by securities of the same content issued by means of a global note.]

[The Issuer reserves the right to replace Warrants issued as electronic securities registered in a central register within the meaning of § 4 (2) eWpG (the “Central Register Securities”) by securities of the same content issued by means of a global note pursuant to § 6 (2) eWpG. The Issuer reserves the right to replace securities issued by means of a global note pursuant to § 6 (3) eWpG by Central Register Securities of the same content.]

[The following provision applies in the case of a Call Warrant:]

- (2) The Redemption Amount (the “Redemption Amount”) in the case of a Call Warrant is equal to the difference by which the Reference Price exceeds the Strike, determined in the Reference Currency, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal (the “Relevant Amount”):

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(5)][(6)].

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Warrants will expire and become worthless. In this case, no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be only [●] per Warrant (the “Minimum Amount”). The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(5)][(6)].

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Warrants will expire and become worthless. In this case, no payment will be made to Warrant Holders.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Relevant Amount thus calculated is zero or a negative value, the Redemption Amount will be only [●] per Warrant (the “Minimum Amount”). If a Warrant Holder holds more than one Warrant, the aggregate of the Minimum Amounts thus calculated will be Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place.]]

[(3)][(4)] The Issuer will pay the Redemption Amount per Warrant to each Warrant Holder at the latest on the Settlement Date.

Exercise of Warrant Rights

[The following provision applies in the case of “European exercise style”:]

Subject to any other provisions of these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Warrant Rights shall be deemed exercised in accordance with the provisions of § 1 on the Valuation Date without any further conditions having to be met and shall lapse upon payment of the Redemption Amount (if the Redemption Amount is positive; otherwise they shall lapse without replacement and become worthless at the end of the day concerned).]

[The following provision applies in the case of “American exercise style”:]

- (1) Warrant Rights may only be exercised for at least [●] Warrant[s] or an integral multiple thereof (the “Minimum Number”). Before the end of the exercise period allocated to the Warrant in the table at the end of § 1 (the “Exercise Period”), the Warrant Holder must
 - (a) submit a[n] [written and] unconditional declaration [in text form] with all necessary information according to para. (2) below (the “Exercise Notice”) to the Paying Agent (in accordance with § 8 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions)), such notice to be sent [by fax to number [+49 (0) 69 15205277] [●]] [and/or] [by email to [frankfurt.gct.operations@bnpparibas.com][●]] [●]; and
 - (b) deliver the Warrants to the Issuer via the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] by transferring the Warrants to the account [of the Paying Agent] [●] with the [Clearing System] [Intermediary] [●] (account no. [7259] [●]).

Subject to a Market Disruption as defined in § 4, Warrant Rights which have not been exercised by the last day of the Exercise Period shall be deemed automatically exercised on that day without any further conditions having to be met or, if that day is not a Trading Day, on the following Trading Day and shall lapse upon payment of the Redemption Amount (if the Redemption Amount is positive; otherwise they shall lapse without replacement and become worthless at the end of the day concerned).

- (2) The Exercise Notice must include:
 - (a) the name and address of the exercising Warrant Holder,
 - (b) the type (WKN or ISIN) and number of the Warrants for which the Warrant Right is being exercised, and
 - (c) the details of a bank account in the Settlement Currency to which the Redemption Amount is to be transferred.

The Exercise Notice is binding and irrevocable. It will take effect if the Exercise Notice has been received before the end of the Exercise Period and the Warrants have been received by the Paying Agent in due time. If the Warrants to which the Exercise Notice relates are not delivered, or not delivered in time, to the Paying Agent in accordance with para. (1)(b), the Exercise Notice shall be null and void.

The Bank Business Day during the Exercise Period on which the conditions for exercise referred to above are first met with respect to the Warrant Rights exercised by [10:00] [●] hrs ([Frankfurt am Main local time] [●]) inclusive shall be deemed the Valuation Date for the purposes of § 1. [[If the Reference Price is regularly determined before [10:00] [●] hrs ([Frankfurt am Main][●] local time) on a Trading Day, the Valuation Date shall be the Bank Business Day following the day on which the Warrant Right is deemed validly

[The following provision applies in the case of a Discount Call Warrant:]

- (2) The Redemption Amount (the “Redemption Amount”) in the case of a Discount Call Warrant is equal to the difference determined in the Reference Currency as follows, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal (the “Relevant Amount”):
- (a) If the Reference Price is higher than the Maximum Price, the Issuer shall, on the Valuation Date, determine a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Maximum Price and the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal:

- (b) If the Reference Price is lower than or equal to the Maximum Price but higher than the Strike, the Issuer shall, on the Valuation Date, determine a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Reference Price and the Strike, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal:

$$\text{Relevant Amount} = (\text{Reference Price} - \text{Strike}) \times (\text{R})$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(5)][(6)].

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

If the Reference Price is lower than or equal to the Strike, the Redemption Amount will be zero (0) and no Redemption Amount shall be paid. The Warrant shall expire worthless.]

[The following provision applies if a Minimum Amount is paid:]

- (b) If the Reference Price is higher than or equal to the Minimum Price but lower than the Strike, the Issuer shall, on the Valuation Date, determine a Redemption Amount per Warrant equal to the difference between the Strike and the Reference Price, multiplied by the Ratio expressed as a decimal:

$$\text{Relevant Amount} = (\text{Strike} - \text{Reference Price}) \times (R)$$

The Redemption Amount thus calculated is then Commercially Rounded to the [●] decimal place. If the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency, the Relevant Amount will be converted into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. [(5)][(6)].

[The following provision applies if no Minimum Amount is paid:]

(2) [For Constant Leverage Long Warrants:]

[For Constant Leverage Long Warrants:]

The redemption amount (“Redemption Amount”) is the relevant Cash Value Long determined in the Reference Currency (the “Relevant Cash Value Long”), which will be converted [, if applicable,] into the Settlement Currency in accordance with § 1 para. (5) [if the Reference Currency is not the same as the Settlement Currency]].

- (a) Subject to a Cash Value Long Calculation Disruption [and subject to [an Emerging Country Market Disruption] or a Market Disruption within the meaning of § 4], the Relevant Cash Value Long is equal to the Cash Value Long, which is determined from the Determination Date onwards [(exclusively)] on each Cash Value Calculation Date [as at the Cash Value Calculation Time] (the “Cash Value Long_(t)”), as at the relevant Exercise Date or the Ordinary Termination Date, and accordingly, subject to any Reset Event of the Cash Value Long as described in para. (3) and subject to the following subparagraph (b), to the Cash Value Long on the immediately preceding Cash Value Calculation Date (the “Cash Value Long_(t-1)”) multiplied by the sum of (i) 1 (in words: one) and (ii) the product of (A) the Leverage Factor and (B) the Performance of the Underlying on the Cash Value Calculation Date_(t), the overall result being increased by the (usually mathematically negative) Financing Component on the Cash Value Calculation Date_(t). The Cash Value Long_(t) is at least equal to [●]% of the Cash Value Long_(t-1):

- (b) If at least one Reset Event of the Cash Value Long_(t) pursuant to para. (3) has taken place [between [two [Cash Value Calculation Dates] [Trading Days] [Cash Value Calculation Times]] [the Cash Value Calculation Time_(t-1) and the Cash Value Calculation Time_(t)] [during the Observation Period] [on the [Cash Value Calculation Date_(t)][Trading Day_(t)]], the following provisions shall apply for the calculation of the Cash Value Long_(t) as at the Cash Value Calculation Time_(t) on the [Cash Value Calculation Date_(t)][Trading Day_(t)] referred to in subparagraph (a) above:

Exercise of Warrant Rights

Subject to any other provisions of these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants, the Warrant Rights shall be deemed exercised in accordance with the provisions of § 1 [on the Valuation Date][●] without any further conditions having to be met and shall lapse upon payment of the Redemption Amount (if the Redemption Amount is positive; otherwise they shall lapse without replacement and become worthless at the end of the day concerned).

Part A, Section II (Underlying Specific Conditions):

Adjustments, extraordinary termination

[The following provision applies if an index is used as Underlying.]

- (1) If the Underlying is no longer calculated and published by the Reference Source but by another person, company or institution that the Calculation Agent considers suitable (the “Successor Reference Source”), the applicable price shall be calculated, if applicable, on the basis of the index calculated and published by the Successor Reference Source. Any reference to the Reference Source contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Reference Source.
- (2) If the Underlying is at any time cancelled and/or replaced with another index which, as determined by the Calculation Agent, is calculated and composed according to the same or a comparable formula and manner as the previous Underlying, the latter index shall serve as the basis for calculating the Redemption Amount (the “Successor Underlying”). The Successor Underlying and the date on which it first becomes applicable shall be published in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay. Any reference to the Underlying contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall then, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Underlying.
- (3) If
 - (a) the Underlying is permanently cancelled or temporarily suspended,
 - (b) the formula and manner of the previous calculation or the composition of the Underlying is changed by the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]] in such a way that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the index is no longer comparable with the previous Underlying,
 - (c) the Underlying is replaced by the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]] with an index that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, is no longer comparable with respect to its method of calculation or composition with the previous Underlying,
 - (d) the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]], as determined by the Calculation Agent, is not in a position to calculate the Underlying, except for reasons that at the same time constitute a Market Disruption as defined in § 4, or
 - (e) events other than those described above occur [for which the Issuer is not accountable] which, in the opinion of the Issuer and the Calculation Agent at their reasonable discretion, are comparable to those events in terms of their economic effects and may have an influence on the calculated value of the Underlying,

(each an “Adjustment Event”) and provided that the Warrants have not been terminated in accordance with para. (4), the Issuer shall adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures and/or the occurrence of the events described in para. (3). For the purposes of calculating the relevant price of the Underlying the Calculation Agent shall use the calculation method used by the Reference Source immediately prior to the change in, or cancellation of, the Underlying and, moreover, only on the basis of the Index Components underlying the Underlying immediately prior to its change or cancellation, except with respect to changes relating to the calculation to determine the Underlying which had already been provided for in the event of a change in the composition of the Index Components. The Issuer shall publish any continuation of the calculation of the index in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.]

[The following provision applies if a futures contract is used as Underlying:]

- (1) If the price of the Underlying is no longer calculated and published by the Reference Source but by another person, company or institution that the Calculation Agent considers suitable (the “Successor Reference Source”), the applicable price shall be calculated, if applicable, on the basis of the price calculated and published by the Successor Reference Source. Any reference to the Reference Source contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Reference Source. Any Successor Reference Source for the Underlying shall be published in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.
- (2) If
 - (a) the listing of the Underlying or trading in the Underlying is cancelled without a replacement,
 - (b) the formula and the manner of the previous calculation or the trading terms and conditions or contract specifications of the Underlying are changed by the Reference Source [and/or [●]] in such a way that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Underlying is no longer comparable with the previous Underlying,
 - (c) the Underlying is replaced by the Reference Source [and/or [●]] with a value that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, is no longer comparable with respect to its method of calculation, trading terms and conditions or contract specifications, with the previous Underlying,
 - (d) the Reference Source is not in a position to calculate the Underlying, except for reasons that at the same time constitute a Market Disruption as defined in § 4,
 - (e) at the time of a Roll-Over under which the Underlying is replaced by another futures contract (if such a Roll-Over is intended to take place during the term of the Warrants), there exists no Underlying, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, whose principal contract specifications match those of the Underlying to be replaced but whose Expiry Date is further in the future, or
 - (f) events other than those described above occur [for which the Issuer is not accountable] which, in the opinion of the Issuer and the Calculation Agent at their reasonable discretion, are comparable to those events in terms of their economic effects and may have an influence on the calculated value of the Underlying,

(each an “Adjustment Event”) and provided that the Warrants have not been terminated in accordance with para. (3), the Issuer shall replace the respective Underlying by a Successor Underlying which, in the opinion of the Calculation Agent, has similar contract specifications to those of the respective Underlying (the “Successor Underlying”) and/or adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in this para. (2). In the event that the respective Underlying is replaced, any reference to the Underlying contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall then, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Underlying. Any replacement or adjustment shall be published in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.]

[The following provision applies if a metal or commodity is used as Underlying:]

- (1) If the price of the Underlying is no longer calculated and published by the Reference Source but by another person, company or institution that the Calculation Agent considers suitable (the “Successor Reference Source”), the applicable price shall be determined, if applicable, on the basis of the price calculated and published by the Successor Reference Source. Any reference to the Reference Source contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Reference Source. Any Successor Reference Source shall be published in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.
- (2) If
 - (a) the listing of the Underlying is permanently cancelled or temporarily suspended,
 - (b) the formula and the manner of the previous calculation or the composition or unit of measurement of the Underlying are changed by the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]] in such a way that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, the Underlying is no longer comparable with the previous Underlying,
 - (c) the Underlying is replaced by the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]] with a value that, as determined by the Calculation Agent, is no longer comparable with respect to its method of calculation or composition with the previous Underlying,
 - (d) the [Reference Source] [and/or [●]], as determined by the Calculation Agent, is not in a position to calculate the Underlying, except for reasons that at the same time constitute a Market Disruption as defined in § 4, or
 - (e) events other than those described above occur [for which the Issuer is not accountable] which, in the opinion of the Issuer and the Calculation Agent at their reasonable discretion, are comparable to those events in terms of their economic effects and may have an influence on the calculated value of the Underlying,

(each an “Adjustment Event”) and provided that the Warrants have not been terminated in accordance with para. (3), the Issuer shall have the right to replace the Underlying with a Successor Underlying (the “Successor Underlying”) and to adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants accordingly. The Calculation Agent (acting at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB)) shall determine a Successor Reference Source and a successor price (the latter multiplied, if applicable, by an adjustment factor) in order to put the Warrant Holders as far as possible in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in this para. (2). Any reference to the Underlying contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants shall, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the Successor Underlying; the same shall apply to the associated Reference Source, other information on the Successor Underlying and the price. Any Successor Underlying (together with the Successor Reference Source and successor price and, if applicable, the applicable adjustment factor) shall be published in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.]

[The following provision applies if a currency exchange rate is used as Underlying:

- (1) [insert in the case of Warrants other than Constant Leverage Warrants, if relevant: If the Underlying is replaced in its function as the legal tender of the country concerned with another currency or a new currency, or if the Underlying is merged with another currency (the “Successor Underlying”) (each an “Adjustment Event”), and provided that the Warrants have not been terminated in accordance with para. (2), the Calculation Agent shall, if applicable, use the Successor Underlying instead of the previous Underlying, and the Issuer shall adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in this para. (1). For this purpose, the Calculation Agent shall determine the new relevant currency exchange rate on the basis of such number of units of the Successor Underlying as is calculated by converting the number of units of the Underlying used for determining the original currency exchange rate into the respective Successor Underlying. The Issuer shall publish any replacement of the currency concerned, the relevant currency exchange rate, the date on which it first becomes applicable and, if applicable, its publication by third parties (each a “Successor Reference Source”) in accordance with § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) without undue delay.

[insert in the case of Constant Leverage Warrants, if relevant: If (a) a currency used in connection with a currency exchange rate is replaced in its function as the legal tender of the country concerned with another currency or a new currency, or if a currency used in connection with a currency exchange rate is merged with another currency (each a “Successor Underlying”), or (b) the determination or listing of the respective currency is cancelled without a replacement (each an “Adjustment Event”), and provided that the Warrants have not been terminated in accordance with para. (2), the Calculation Agent shall, if applicable, use the Successor Underlying instead of the currency previously used in connection with a currency exchange rate, and the Issuer shall adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in this para. (1). Any reference contained in these Terms and Conditions of the Warrants to an Underlying used in connection with a currency exchange rate or, if applicable, to the [relevant] Reference Source shall, where the context allows, be deemed a reference to the [relevant] Successor Underlying or the [relevant] Successor Reference Source, respectively.]]

[The following provision applies if an index, a futures contract, a currency exchange rate, a metal or a commodity is used as Underlying:

- [●] In the event that an Adjustment Event occurs, the Issuer shall have the right, but no obligation, to terminate the Warrants by extraordinary termination by means of a notice according to § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions). In the event of termination, the Issuer shall (instead of making the payments that would otherwise have to be made under the Warrants) pay each Warrant Holder an amount per Warrant (the “Termination Amount”) determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) to be the appropriate market price of the Warrant immediately prior to the event giving rise to the right to terminate [if relevant, including in view of compliance with local law requirements in the offer country, insert potential additional parameters and/or components that will be taken into account when determining the Termination Amount: and which will also take into account [●].

The Issuer shall transfer the Termination Amount within four Bank Business Days after the date of the notice according to § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) to the Clearing System or its successor in order for the Clearing System or its successor to forward these monies to the Warrant Holders. The Issuer shall pay the Termination Amount in accordance with § 7 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions).]

[The following provision applies if a share or American Depositary Receipt or Global Depositary Receipt or Ordinary Depositary Receipt is used as Underlying:

- (1) If a Potential Adjustment Event as described in para. (2) occurs, the Issuer may, at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 315 BGB), adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in para. (2). In doing so, the Issuer may also, at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 315 BGB), adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in the same way in which corresponding adjustments are made on the Futures Exchange with respect to traded futures or option contracts on the Underlying, or would be made if corresponding futures or option contracts on the Underlying are or were traded on the exchange. The adjustments may also relate to the replacement of the Underlying with a share basket in connection with the securities referred to in para. (2).
- (2) “Potential Adjustment Event” in relation to [a share] [and/or] [an American Depositary Receipt] [and] [or] [a [Global] Depositary Receipt] [and] [or] [an Ordinary Depositary Receipt] as Underlying means:

 - (ii) the granting of additional securities to the shareholders of the Company which allow them to receive payments and/or dividends or proceeds of liquidation of the Company in proportion to the shares held by them; the granting to the shareholders of the Company of additional share capital or other securities of another issuer acquired or owned (directly or indirectly) by the Company as a result of a spin-off or other similar transaction; or the granting of other securities, rights or options or assets to the shareholders of the Company, in any case for payment (in cash or in other consideration) at less than the prevailing market price, which is deemed to be relevant by the Calculation Agent;

- (iii) any extraordinary dividend that is not a dividend distributed as part of the regular schedule of dividend payments;
 - (iv) a call to pay capital contributions in respect of shares that are not fully paid;
 - (v) a repurchase of the shares by the Company whether out of profits or capital and irrespective whether the consideration for such repurchase is cash, securities or otherwise;

 - (vii) or any other measure [for which the Issuer is not accountable] that dilutes or enhances the theoretical intrinsic value of the share.
- (3) If an Adjustment Event according to para. (4) occurs, the Issuer may at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 315 BGB):
- (i) adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in such a way that the Warrant Holders are, insofar as possible, put in the same economic position they were in prior to the implementation of the measures described in para. (4). The adjustments may also relate to the replacement of the Underlying with a share basket in connection with the securities referred to in para. The Issuer may also, at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 315 BGB), adjust the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants in the same way in which corresponding adjustments are made on the Futures Exchange with respect to traded futures or option contracts on the Underlying, or would be made if corresponding futures or option contracts on the Underlying are traded on the exchange; or
 - (ii) terminate the Warrants early by means of a notice according to § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions), stating the Termination Amount defined herebelow. In the event of termination, the Issuer shall (instead of making the payments that would otherwise have to be made under the Warrants) pay each Warrant Holder an amount per Warrant (the “Termination Amount”) determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) to be the appropriate market price of the Warrant immediately prior to the event giving rise to the right to terminate [if relevant, including in view of compliance with local law requirements in the offer country, insert potential additional parameters and/or components that will be taken into account when determining the Termination Amount] and which will also take into account [●].

The Issuer shall transfer the Termination Amount within four Bank Business Days after the date of the notice according to § 9 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions) to the Clearing System or its successor in order for the Clearing System or its successor to forward these monies to the Warrant Holders. The Issuer shall pay the Termination Amount in accordance with § 7 of Part B of the Terms and Conditions of the Warrants (General Conditions).

Whether a takeover offer has been made will be determined by the Calculation Agent at its reasonable discretion (Sec. 317 BGB) on the basis of notifications by government or other relevant bodies or on the basis of other information considered to be relevant by the Calculation Agent;
- (v) a valid completion of a takeover offer, i.e. an announcement by the offeror that a takeover offer has irrevocably come into effect;
